U.S. Business Urged To Hold Price

JOHNSON CITY, Tex.(AP)—President Johnson told top business leaders today he expects record prosperity without inflation in 1966. He called for wage-price restraint to help achieve that.

In an address prepared for delivery by telephone to the blue-ribbon Business Council, meeting in closed session in Washington, Johnson called for cooperative decisions by industry, labor and government to keep wages and prices in line with federal guideposts designed to guard against inflation.

In so doing, he cited the sacrifices of American troops in Viet Nam, saying: "We must support them from here as they support each other there. We must equal their sacrifice and uphold their cause. . ."

At the same time, he restated his offer of unconditional talks aimed at ending the Viet Nam conflict - an increasingly costly war that has sparked public discussion of potential inflationary pressures in the months ahead.

Said Johnson:

"I have said it before. I say it again now. This nation is ready to talk, unconditionally, anywhere, with peace as our agenda.

"Peace will come because it must. It will come from courage, from constancy, and from concern. It will come because there is no other answer.

"Peace is our commitment. Peace is our goal. Peace will be the only victory we seek. And peace will come."

For them he offered this forecast:

"We expect next year to be another record year for the American economy. We are ever alert to danger signs, of course, and when we see them, we will act accordingly. But we do not anticipate any major problem that confidence and cooperation cannot solve."

The chief executive noted that wholesale prices have risen 2.3 per cent in the past 12 months while consumer prices have risen 1.8 per cent.

"This situation has now fairly stabilized," he said, "and we do not expect such an outbreak next year. In the past four months both wholesale prices and consumer prices have been advancing at a rate of less than 1 per cent a year."

Johnson said that while needs are growing—partly because of the Viet Nam war—the economy is growing, too.

"We can produce the goods and services we require without 'overheating' our economy," he asserted.

Many of the biggest names in American industry, trade and finance are represented on the 125-member council. It acts as an unofficial government advisory group.

Johnson's decision to address the business leaders coincided with increased public discussion of inflation pressures that might grow out of multi-billion-dollar federal outlays for the war in Viet Nam.

It also came at a time when Johnson's normally harmonious relations with the business world had become something of a question mark because of administration efforts to hold down prices and interest rates.

Messer Pastor At Trinity

Trinity Baptist church has called Dr. Thomas S. Messer to serve as interim pastor.

Dr. Messer has for 14 years served as director of the Baptist student center, chair of Bible at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

He received his bachelor of arts degree at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg; master of theology and doctor of theology degrees from New Orleans Baptist seminary, and has completed post-graduate study in philosophy at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland.

Dr. Messer, in addition to his teaching and preaching activities, writes adult Sunday school lessons for the Baptist Sunday School board in Nashville, Tenn.

More than two and one-quarter million copies of the lesson material in more than 40 languages is circulated in 70 nations.

Dr. Messer recently wrote the lessons on Matthew. He is now writing adult lessons on the Book of Acts.

In 1955, after world travels and detailed studies in the Holy Lands, he authored a book titled "Walking Where Jesus Walked."

He has since traveled in more than 35 nations, made a trip around the world. He served last year in the Baptist ministers' Australian crusade.

Cotton Program Details Related

Hilton Bracey

Hilton Bracey, Portageville, executive vice-president of the Missouri Cotton Producers Association, told his audience that the 1966 program will be a decided change from previous programs, and the grower has a choice of complying or changing to some other farming method.

"You can't depend entirely on government prices, because one Congress can't bind another," said Bracey. "We can't outguess the Viet Nam struggle, and this alone may change the whole future picture.

"Why then grow cotton?" He gave seven reasons why this should be done.

"To protect our land values, utilize the best farm machinery known to man, maintain modern handling and storage facilities, lower the cost unit, continue to provide employment, and support the economies of cotton producing areas.

"A man should ask himself if he wants to get out of the cotton business, then cut to the 65 per cent program. You must work out your own figures and make your own choice. No man can always figure the best way to go on his own farm."

"This is not the type of program we like to bring you, because it often works in the opposite direction. Cotton exports average one out of three bales in 1960, and are now down to 25 per cent. The trend today is closing ranks between surpluses and production and by 1970 will have closed ranks.

"The 1966 to 1969 program calls for 16 million acres, and will be an annual affair. The domestic allotment will be received by Christmas and will be 65 per cent of what you have, and in 1966 will be 87 1/2 per cent. The loan in 1966 will be 21 cents and in 1967 and thereafter will not be more than 90 per cent of the world price."

"Farmers from 1966-69 may retire land under five to ten year controls, and have one surplus crop put in the program. There cannot be more than 10 per cent of county allotment retired in any one year. Six cents is the established price.

"Acreage not planted because of natural disaster, from floods, drought, can be planted to cotton acreage if it is not devoted to other income producing crop in that year. One-half of the payment will be made when signing up, the other half in the middle of the year.

"On domestic and export prices, the 1966 levels will drop five and three-fourths cents. The price support will equal the difference between loan and 65 per cent of parity on permitted acreage.

"The diversion payment is 10- and one-half cents per pound, and diverted from cotton into conservation uses. The price support and diversion based on projected yield cannot be less than normal 610 pounds or 725 pounds.

"An example on payments between landlords and tenants would be on 100 acres; 65 acres of 500 pounds times 30.42 cents (21-cent loan plus 9.42 cents payment, would equal $9,886.50. The 35 acres of 500 pounds times 10.5 cents (land retirement payment, equals $1,837.50, for a total of $11,724. The landlord would receive $3,390.37, and the tenant $3,523.63. This would be a 1966 minimum planting.

"Acreage taken out of usage must be for conservation usage and not over 5 and one-fourth acres on 10 acres. In the case of skip row planting, it would be two rows cotton and one skip or 66 and two-thirds. The second year it would be two and two. As an example, on 100 acres would be reduced 12 and one-half per cent to 25 per cent, and four and four row skip and 75 per cent. We don't think this will cut down on production."

"The transfer of allotment is new, with the transfer being permanent upon sale of the land. If a man buys an allotment it belongs to him from then on, and has nothing to do with the four-year program. But you must wait five years to buy another allotment, and you cannot buy and sell an allotment in the same year. The lease stays with the farm where it originates.

"The export market acreage reserve of 250,000 acres has been established in 1966. All of this cotton must go out of the United States and will have no price support."

Miami Awaits Second Plane of Refugees

MIAMI, Fla. AP -- A second planeload of refugees in a daily U. S.-financed air shuttle from Cuba was awaited today even as some of the first arrivals embarked on a new life in the north.

Ten hours after 75 refugees from the Communist-ruled island landed Wednesday, a family group of six donned donated overcoats and boarded a plane to join relatives in Elizabeth, N. J. Others prepared to leave for other points.

Youth Corps Project Okayed

WASHINGTON -- A neighborhood Youth Corps project for 30 in-school enrollees in the Richland R-4 school district at Essex, Mo., was one of six in Missouri, approved by the Labor Department, it was announced today.

The total cost is $16,160 of which the federal government will provide $13,760.

New Draft on Birth Control

VATICAN CITY AP -- A new draft of the Vatican Ecumenical Council's statement on birth control urges further study of contraception, thus leaving the question "more than open," informed sources said today.

The informants said this sets the stage for possible changes in the Church's future attitude, making clear that while past teachings against contraception still are valid, this is not necessarily the final word.

Pope Paul VI is expected to make an interim statement on birth control Tuesday when the modern world schema--of which the contraception question is a part--will be promulgated as a council decree.

Bootheel Educators To Take Deep Look At Need For Junior College

Forty high school superintendents and others associated with Southeast Missouri public schools decided yesterday to take a deeper look into the Bootheel's need for a junior college.

The gathering at the Country Club decided to establish a committee to study the possibilities of locating such a college in the area.

Lynn Twitty, Sikeston superintendent of schools, who called the meeting, has emphasized the need to provide vocational training beyond high school, but a junior college also would offer undergraduate courses, which could be applied toward a liberal arts degree.

Each school district in a six-county area - - Stoddard, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Dunklin counties-- will appoint one member to a county committee. The county groups then will select one member for a six-county committee to explore the junior college possibilities.

A meeting will be held in Dexter next month.

A specific location for the college was not discussed but Fred Davis, Jefferson City, director of junior colleges for the state department of education, told how a site might be selected after a petitioning process to determine citizen interest. A board of trustees established in the area to be served by the college would select the site.

L. M. Standley, member of the state commission on higher education and Sikeston board of education president, reported that the commission was "thinking about the 60 per cent of the young men and women who cannot go to college."

He said that "we are here to listen to the views of your group."

Dr. Ben Morton, Jefferson City, secretary of the state board of education said that a Junior College can be tied to an area situation.

"There are now nine four-year colleges in the state, and we hope that they will increase to 14," he said.

W. R. Pierce, superintendent of schools at Charleston, said that the Junior College is uniquely American, and serves functions that other colleges do not.

Fred Morrow, superintendent at Poplar Bluff, discussing the Junior College said that, "a resident student would carry a small fee, tax money would take care of another part, and state aid the balance. The cost per student would total $400."

Lyman Evans of Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau commented, "although higher education is competitive, we will always work together with any junior college program."

No Dramatic Buildup Of U.S. Troops Expected In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although another large increase seems probable, U. S. officials discounted today the likelihood of any dramatic immediate reinforcement of U.S. troops in South Viet Nam to counter the mounting infiltration of North Vietnamese soldiers.

The key to the pace of the buildup, which some say may see an eventual doubling of the present 165,000 U.S. fighting men in South Viet Nam, is the progress made in developing the port, depot and other facilities to receive the additional troops and to support them once they are in the country.

Work on the pivotal Cam Ranh base on the Vietnamese coast is moving ahead on a two-shift-a-day footing, but even at that tempo engineer officials say it will be quite a while before this and other new ports are in high gear.

Priority construction also is being pushed on new airfields to handle heavier Air Force operations in prospect.

The ultimate extent of the reinforcement will depend on the actions of the enemy. Experience — especially the experience of this past year — has shown that manpower sights have had to be lifted again and again.

Some speculation is that U.S. forces in South Viet Nam may increase from the present 165,000 to 250,000 or 300,000 men. Conceivably, the eventual total could zoom even higher.

Not counted in with the present 165,000 are some 50,000 to 60,000 Navy men aboard 7th Fleet vessels in Southeast Asian waters.

Enlistments are up sharply in all the services, and the Army is taking in about 40,000 draftees this month.

Draft calls are certain to remain about this high. They could go higher if the troop demands growing out of the Viet Nam war become acute.

Manpower plans are based on the need to beef up the regular forces worldwide by 340,000 men to a total just below three million, and by the need to replace casualties, the sick, and men whose enlistments and tours of active duty expire.

Woman Who Helps Her Husband Get Ahead Not Too Beautiful, Sexy, Smart

NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to help your husband get ahead, you'd better not be too sexy, too beautiful or too smart. If you succeed, though, you could end up with an ulcer.

That is the word from Mrs. J. Robert Fluor of Pasadena, Calif., wife of a business executive and beauteous mother of two sons, aged 18 and 20. She's so attractive you would think she did not take her own advice.

Her husband of 21 years is chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers. He also is president of Fluor Co. Ltd. of Los Angeles, a firm with 6,000 employes that does a $100-million to $200-million a year business building oil, chemical and petrochemical plants around the world.

"We have the perfect husband-wife relationship," said Fluor. "I get the work, and she gets the ulcer."

Less than three months after he was elected last year to a one-year term as chairman of the NAM, Mrs. Fluor came down with an ulcer.

"I take things quite seriously," she said. "But that ulcer — it wasn't all NAM. It was part Fluor."

She is quite serious about her role as a corporate wife.

"You should be a good listener and a good conversationalist," she said in an interview. "That's one of the biggest things for a good wife."

At all odds, you must not attract too much attention or any criticism.

"Any criticism of the boss's wife would be transferred to his company," she said.

"I like to be able to be myself, but I must dress and act in keeping with my husband's position and not overdo."

As for her husband's business, Mrs. Fluor said she knew little about it.

"He's a firm believer in leaving business at the office," she said. "When someone asks me why the stock went up or down, I don't know and I ask. But he always says he doesn't know, either.

"I give him an opinion on personnel problems, whether he asks or not."

Firemen Admit Setting Blazes

MEMPHIS, Tenn. AP -- Two volunteer firemen who, investigators said, admitted setting two house fires because they like to fight them, have pleaded guilty to arson charges.

Jimmy Franklin Owens, 23, and Willie L. Berryhill, 22, were sentenced Wednesday to three-year terms at the county penal farm.

The fires were set March 31, 1964. Investigators said that in each instance Owens and Berryhill returned to the scene and fought the blaze. They were members of the Chickasaw Village Fire Department.

Three U.S. Jet Fighters Downed By Red Gunners

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist gunners downed three U.S. jet fighters, includine one from the newly arrived atomic-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, during raids on North and South Viet Nam in the past 24 hours, U. S. spokesmen reported today.

Another fighter from the Enterprise crashed into the sea while trying to land on the 85,000-ton carrier, the world's largest. The accident occurred on the Enterprise's first day of combat operations in the South China Sea.

The four airmen from the Enterprise were rescued. The pilots of the two other planes were missing and presumed killed.

The losses pushed the number of American planes downed in operations in Viet Nam beyond 150.

One of the planes hit was an Air Force F105 during an attack on a bridge 50 miles north of Hanoi Wednesday night. Pilots reported they saw four surface-to-air missiles in flight in the area but said none scored hits.

Weapon Case Dismissed By Magistrate

NEW MADRID -- Another light docket was experienced by magistrate court this week.

Three persons were charged with felonies:

A. M. Kimes, charged with exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon, had his case dismissed upon payment of court costs of $20;

John Brower and Buster King waived preliminary hearings and were remanded to circuit court with bonds set at $500 each. Brower was charged with running a bawdy house and King with carrying a concealed weapon.

Homer David Burnham paid $110 this week for operating a motor vehicle without Missouri Public Service Commission Authority.

Ruben Johnson and Eddie Treadwell were fined $25 each for careless and imprudent driving. Joe Harold Anders paid $15 for the same offense.

TREATMENT OF ALCOHOLISM

A government crusade against one of the leading social ills of the day appears to be shaping up in Washington. The target is alcoholism. If present planning comes to fruition, it will be the first time since Prohibition that the scourge of excessive drinking has been subjected to a broad-scale federal attack.

According to medical authorities, only the great killer diseases (cancer and heart trouble) and mental illness rank ahead of alcoholism as a public health problem in terms of the adverse effects on individual, family and community. The causes of alcoholism have remained a mystery to medical science, and the affliction itself has been resistant to efforts so far made to overcome it.

There are an estimated five million alcoholics in the United States, and their drinking habits are said to affect directly the well-being of 20 million close relatives. Some persons place the totals even higher, up to 10 million alcoholics including "problem drinkers" who are well on their way to becoming addicts. The toll taken by alcoholism in ill health, loss of earning capacity, family breakdown, child neglect, etc., is incalculable. Alcoholism is believed to be the cause of more than 10,000 deaths a year. The economic loss -- from job absenteeism, care and treatment of alcoholics, and support of their families -- has been estimated at $2 billion.

Thirteen years of national prohibition (1920-33) proved that the evils of excessive drinking could not be conquered by attempting to impose total abstinence by statute. The approach today is quite different. It is based on the modern concept of the alcoholic as a sick person who is unable to control his drinking. Plans for attacking the problem resemble those of government campaigns launched against other enemies of public health; they include provision for more research, more treatment facilities, more specialist training, and more public education to provide a base of support for the whole endeavor.

The buildup of government action against alcoholism is taking place primarily in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, especially in H.E.W.'s National Institute of Mental Health. A new N.I.M.H. Section on Alcoholism and Drug Addiction, established in March 1964, is scheduled to be expanded next year to a full-fledged center on the addictive diseases. The institute's expenditures on the alcoholism problem have risen from $1.4 million in 1961 to an estimated $4.5 million in the current fiscal year.

H.E.W. officials have been pushing for intensive action on alcoholism since former Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze called a national conference on the question in mid-1963. A number of subsequent conferences on particular phases of the problem -- vocational rehabilitation of the alcoholic and court handling of chronic inebriates, for example -- have been government-sponsored or supported. A Secretary's Committee on Alcoholism, established in early 1964, serves as coordinator and promoter of activities in this field.

The administration may ask Congress next year to authorize a program on alcoholism that will stimulate action in the states as well as pump new money into existing federal programs. Much depends on the recommendations to be made by the Cooperative Commission on the Study of Alcoholism. The commission, based at Stanford University in California, is nearing completion of a comprehensive, government-financed study of the incidence of alcoholism and the quantity and quality of current federal, state and local efforts to overcome the evil.

The House Commerce Committee opened hearings in late September on bills to establish a federal commission on alcoholism and authorize grants to the states for research, preventive education, and treatment programs. The hearings will be resumed after Congress returns to Washington in January.

"If the day should ever arrive (which God forbid), when the people of the different parts of our country should allow their local affairs to be administered by prefects sent from Washington, and when the self-government of the States shall have been so far lost as that of the departments of France or the counties of England, on that day the progressive political career of the American people will have come to an end and the hopes that have been built upon it for the future happiness and prosperity of mankind will be wrecked forever."

FACTS

"Now the argument is made from time to time that you have to have compulsory unionism. This is a lot of malarkey. . . There are in agriculture, and on the political fringes of agriculture, people who promote the idea that farmers ought to be forced to join one of the farm organizations in order to farm. It's called 'licensing.'. . .Now any organization with compulsory membership is more likely to be interested in serving the selfish purposes of those in control than in serving members."

TV AUDIENCE DECLINE

An analysis of the national television audience done by the A. C. Nielsen Co. for Broadcasting magazine, which shows a substantial decline in the number of households watching Tv this Fall compared to a year ago, has created a great deal of consternation in the broadcasting industry--and produced multiple explanations and revelations. (Strangely enough, the revelations seem to have created absolutely no stir on Madison Avenue which must be immune to the juggling of broadcast audiences in boxcar figures.)

Nielsen told Broadcasting, which so reported, that the number of households "watching television in the average nighttime minute during the week ended last Sept. 26 dipped to 30,-666,000 down from 32,033,400 in the week ended Oct. 11, 1964, the second week of the 1964-65 season. The 1965 average was a drop of 1,367,400 from the 1964 figure." (Although the networks rushed forward explanations of this, Madison Ave. was less than unconcerned. Imagine the gloomy reports of the declining newspaper business if the total circulation of daily newspapers had dropped that much in one year!) The figures represented "households"--to obtain the number of alleged viewers, or in this instance non-viewers, multiply by 2.2.

The decline represented slightly more than 4%. But Tv executives explained the figure should be around 2% (or 675,000 households multiplied by 2.2 viewers) because: And, at this point, anyone who is interested is treated to one of the greatest examples of figure juggling in the history of advertising.

It seems that up until March 1964 any Tv set was considered as a household. It was realized that 20 to 25% of U.S. homes had two or more sets, so at that time the measurement was changed to consider a home with two Tv sets as only one Tv home.

One does not have to be a mathematician to question all those audience claims of prior years nor to wonder whether comparative claims of networks have any validity right now.

"Smith," said the boy.

"What's your first name?" asked the principal.

"Hitler," replied the boy. "Come, come, no fooling. What's your name?"

"Hitler-- and if you don't believe me -- just ask my brother there."

Turning to the other boy, the principal asked, "Is that right? Is his name Hitler?"

"Sure," said the boy, "that's his name and my name's Mussolini."

A VITAL KEY

Farm chemicals are a key to prosperity. That, in substance, is the authoritative opinion of Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. He offered it in an address to the 30th Annual Meeting of the National Agricultural Chemicals Associacultural Chemicals Association. To quote him exactly: "The average consumer probably does not realize that use of Agricultural chemicals is one of the key factors in the technological revolution in farming that has resulted in an abundance of high quality, nutritious food, at bargain prices. The . . . other factors that have contributed to our highly efficient system of farming are the application of power and genetic improvement.

" . . . farm production efficiency enables an hour's work to buy 60 per cent more farm food than in 1947-49 . . . increased efficiency over the years has freed manpower to develop and operate our mass production industrial and manufacturing system."

Mr. Shuman also said this: " . . . sensational charges that tend to discredit all uses of agricultural chemicals in agriculture serve no real purpose other than to substitute mass hysteria for calm and thoughtful study and appraisal. Agriculture recognizes the need for regulation in the use of agricultural chemicals -- and there is ample supervision now vested in several agencies of government-- but excess regulation would not improve enforcement of safety precautions. It is something akin to asking for greater regulation of poisons in order to keep children from opening medicine cabinets."

Food will inevitably become an increasingly important problem as population soars and more and more farm land must be used for nonfarm purposes. The pesticides, and the other proved agricultural chemicals, will be an essential element in the solution.

" . . . all available research indicates", said Mr. Shuman, "that the use of agricultural chemicals according to directions does not constitute a health hazard."

Radio sez Unks tryin to stick his nose in that frucus in Africa. It talks like John Bull aint so keen fur that.

Yept John's had the experience all over the world and has wisely drawed back into his shell. After he spilled young blood all over the world tryin make other people dance to his tune.

Yept, lots of that blood spilt here. It might be a good ida fur J.B. to give Unk some of his advice like I seen on a tombstone. It sed look at this as you are passin by. As you are now, so once was I. As I am now so you shall be. Prepare for death and follow me.

Sooner or later all that travel the road J.B. took will wind up like he has, if we happen to have wise men runnin things that knows when to quit. If not we may wind up in perg.

H. L. Hunt Says

MISSING AMERICANISM

Many feel that to be well-informed requires silence. These faint-hearts could learn a lesson from Charles H. Brower, chairman of the executive committee of one of the nation's largest advertising agenies, who has almost achieved immortality because he spoke, and well, his love for his country in a now famous speech entitled THE RETURN OF THE SQUARE. He chided all Americans, and patriots in particular, for their desire for "uninvolvement".

These are but a few of his wonderful ideas: Once we were the greatest exporter of ideas in the world. We exported the wonderful idea of individual dignity, liberty, and initiative. One of the finest words in our language was "square". You gave a man a square deal if you were honest. You gave him a square meal if he was hungry. You stood foursquare for the right as you saw it and square against everything else. When you got out of debt, you were square with the world. And that was when you could look your fellowman square in the eye.

Then from the underworld a "square" took on a new meaning. From the prisons it was flashed across the country on the marijuana circuit. A square is a man who never learned about getting away with wrongdoing. A fellow who laughs with his belly instead of his upper lip.

You may be surprised to learn Mr. Brower did not get lambasted for chiding Americans. Instead, his speech was reproduced, rerun, reprinted, and re-requested. Mr. Brower is a hero. Dormant patriots may be encouraged to also try for fame. HLH

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK - If you could live in any period of the world's history, which would you choose - past, present, or future?

The romantic soul aches for the imagined glamor of bygone times he never knew.

If he is a henpecked husband, he may yearn for the caveman days, when each fellow was master of his niche in the cliff -- and women received equal rights by being belted over the head with a club.

Or he may pine for the chivalrous glories of knighthood. He overlooks the fact that riding off to battle in a suit of clanking armor must have been largely just a noisy adventure in claustrophobia.

He wants to zoom through space, build a desert villa on the moon, and explore Mars in search of red-eyed, little green people - like creatures with antennas on their noggins. He doesn't have any real idea what life will be like in the 21st or 22nd centuries. But he is sure it would be wild, and wierd and wonderful.

So much for the backward lookers and the forward seekers. That leaves us with the realists. They are the ones who aren't hungry for a fabled past or thirsty for a fabulous future.

They walk the tightrope of the present-between a dream and a dream. They prefer to banquet on the bread and wine of now, satisfied with the menu as it changes in the course of their lifetime.

What is the best time to live? When you get right down to it, what's the matter with right now?

A man who has achieved the full maturity of middle age in this most murderous of centuries is a privileged adventurer indeed.

He has survived two world wars and one of the worst depressions our country ever knew.

He has seen the horse and buggy give way to the auto, the street car replaced by the bus, the railroad succeeded by the jet plane, artillery outmoded by the atomic bomb.

From birth the middle -aged man today has been surrounded by change.

He has seen more change than any other individual his age in history. But it is possible for a man to get a bellyful of change. Change isn't always for the better.

That's the reason that now, for many a thoughtful man, is the best of all times in which to live. He'd rather pause and enjoy today's goodies -- before tomorrow comes along and improves him to death.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

(Editor's Note: On the eve of the French elections, Drew Pearson draws on his recent trip to France to diagnose President De Gaulle.)

WASHINGTON -- In Paris this fall I had occasion to talk to many Frenchmen about Charles De Gaulle, now running for re-election; also about relations between those two ancient allies, France and the United States.

De Gaulle, I was assured, is not anti-American. He is simply pro - French. He has given France its most unparalleled period of prosperity, a period in which French factory workers, who used to eye with envy the cars owned by American factory workers, now have their own. The cars are a little smaller than American autos, but they have them.

Furthermore, L'Humanite, the Communist newspaper, carries a more detailed description than any Paris newspaper of new cars, their virtues and defects. Aware that French Communists own their own cars, L'Humanite strives for circulation.

De Gaulle's friends say that he has achieved prosperity partly by ending civil war in Algeria, partly by operating a socialist state.

In 1945 De Gaulle nationalized the bigger French insurance companies, something which would have brought cries of "Communism" in the United States. He also nationalized the major bank. In both respects he has gone further than the British Labor Party.

De Gaulle also follows the same American system of subsidizing farmers, which some people call socialism. The annaul subsidy to French farmers is $700,000,000, as against around $4 billion of farm subsidies in the United States.

AN ELEPHANT'S MEMORY

And this is one reason for friction between the United States and De Gaulle. He objects vigorously to the importation of American farm products by common market nations. He wants other common market nations to reserve the European market for higher-priced, subsidized French and German wheat. After all, 18 per cent of the French population is on the farm, as compared with only 8 per cent in the United States. And French farmers vote. American farmers don't vote--in France.

Le Grand Charley (Big Charley), as the Parisien taxi-drivers call him, has a memory like an elephant's. He remembers a lot of things that happened during the war when he was in exile in London, head of the Free French.

He remembers especially that slurring speech of Secretary of State Cordell Hull regarding the "so-called" Free French, and the fact that the man who wrote the speech was Sam Reber, intimate friend of Charles Bohlen, now U.S. ambassador in Paris. This has not helped relations with the United States.

De Gaulle also remembers how General Eisenhower in 1944 didn't take the trouble to notify him that the United States was going to cross the channel and land troops in Normandy until the night before the landing. De Gaulle was in London. The invasion of his country was the biggest military event of the war. Yet only the night before did Eisenhower remark to Gen. Omar Bradley that he'd better drop around and tell De Gaulle they were going to retake France.

RESURRECTING LAVAL

Le Grand Charley also remembers Roosevelt's attempt to install Nazi - collaborator Pierre Laval as provisional president of France. De Gaulle didn't know about this until after the war when he read Anthony Eden's memoirs and found out that Eden had finally persuaded FDR that Laval was too hated in France. Later Laval was shot as a traitor.

There is a French saying that the King of France should forget the insults of the Duke D'-Orleans. But the old man who runs France today doesn't forget.

No one in the French government has any doubt as to who is running France. It is the old man. De Gaulle personally passes on the question of American investments in France. If the investment would put control of more than 20 per cent of a segment of French industry in foreign hands, he says no. But he ok'd 60 per cent of the American investments last year.

At the age of 77 he is brilliant, anything but senile. He writes many letters of instructions to ambassadors himself, and even though Foreign Minister Couve De Murville may sign the letters, the ambassadors can recognize De Gaulle's instructions by their clarity.

He figures that the United States would never really enter the common market, since, among other things, the market provides that a doctor in one country can practice in another country without getting a license; and that any child beyond the fifth grade can interchange schools between countries. The American Medical Association, De Gaulle knows, would never accept the first, nor would southern states accept black French students.

This is the man who is certain to be reelected president of France and whom President Johnson will have to work with, and the United States will have to live with, whether we like it or not.

"But you Americans should remember," remarked one French Gaullist who knows and likes America, "that De Gaulle will not live forever, and France and the United States will go on for a long time."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor Seeking High - Up Post in New $25 Billion LBJ Dept. Set to Create More Jobs Than Steel, Auto Industries.

Washington, D. C: -- Meanwhile, back here on earth, the government's newest and still headless department is inching along towards the expenditure of $25 billion in the coming five years.

This, and not the name-game played with contenders for the new secretaryship of the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (H. U. D.), is the most staggering story in town. Except, of course, for war and peace.

It is staggering because the new law, which created the Dept., also will create more man-years of employment than any project since and including the Sphinx and Cheops Pyramid.

Whole new cities will be built. The entire core of rotting cities will be demolished. Sprawling new housing developments will reach from one community enclave to another, touching and thus stretching continuous megalopolises for hundreds of miles.

To demolish, to build, to cart for surface construction and for subterranean digging will require the fantastic figure of 2.6 million man - years of well-paying work in the next half decade. And that's just the beginning.

Few have bothered to work out the vast employment implications, except those in the AFL - CIO Building and Construction Trades Dept. headquarters under its president, Neal Haggerty.

In all, he reckons, one million new and probably permanent jobs will be created in the construction field and allied areas. This matches the development of the railroad or steel or auto industries. The new law will, in fact, add more new permanent jobs eventually than there will be in the railroad and steel businesses combined.

The $25 billion dollars is a lot of cash, even in this holiday-ing capital. Huges tracts of land will have to be bought, vast quantities of materials will be needed -- and the letting of contracts and hiring of manpower will make any H.U.D. chief one of the most powerful men in the nation. Not only will his crown lie uneasily, but he will be on the hottest seat in the land.

The nation's political power is the cities. There, too, is labor's strength. And the restless Negro communities. There will be many strains as the huge cranes rumble into position to rip apart the rot or bring up the metal for the new. To whom will the jobs go?

Inherent are enormous conflicts. Therefore, President Johnson has moved slowly in the naming of the newest cabinet member. He began in midsummer when he talked aboard a Washington riverboat with the urbane and quick-humored Whitney Young, executive director of the Urban League.

Mr. Johnson, in effect, reportedly said that Mr. Young could have the new departmental post. The League's leader allegedly replied the President certainly could do better. It was left that way.

But vital as the new Cabinet member will be, the new department's second administrative officer would be of equal moment and weight.

The department's under - secretary will be the chief administrative officer. He would be the trouble - shooter, the pacifier, the professional protagonist and antagonist, depending on the belligerents.

And that undersecretaryship is the post into which American labor wants to place one of its own leaders. Most talked of by the insiders is the modest, laconic, almost anonymous Joe Keenan, AFL-CIO vice president and secretary of the powerful International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

He is a trouble-shooter par excellence. He was the first civilian to be rushed into postwar Germany. He got the anti-Nazi labor leaders out of concentration camps. He resuscitated them.

They built a movement which drove back the Soviet's apparatus. It was this operation which many believe saved West Berlin from take-over by Communist labor units.

Keenan's colleagues feel there are few men who could keep the vast construction behemoth running smoothly.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Eugene Ozment

Mary Lou Lincoln Is Wed To Lindsey E. Ozment

MORLEY -- The First Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Mary Lou Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Lincoln, route one, Oran, to Lindsey Eugene Ozment of Sikeston Saturday at 7 p.m.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Genevieve Ozment of Sikeston and the late Don Ozment.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace. The bodice was highlighted with pearls and sequins and featured long tapered sleeves that came to points over the hands. Her finger-tip veil was secured by a rhinestone crown. She carried a bouquet of two orchids and lilies of the valley atop a white Bible.

The flower girl wore a blue brocaded dress that was styled with long sleeves. Her matching veil was secured with a bow. She carried a basket of white carnations.

Mrs. Ozment, the groom's mother, was attired in a magenta suit and hat and completed her ensemble with black accessories. She wore a peppermint carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered cake. Punch, nuts and mints were also served to the guests. Helen Jackson, Loretta Boley, Ruth Ann Milan and Judy Cook assisted in serving at the reception. Wanda Lincoln of Oran, the bride's sister, was in charge of the guest register. She wore a powder blue wool dress and a white carnation corsage.

The couple left for a short wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For travel, Mrs. Ozment chose a yellow wool sheath with black accessories.

Is Director Of Little Theatre Production

The very best of plays can be only as good as its director. With this in mind, Sikeston Little Theatre is fortunate to have "Brownie" Urban in charge of this season's premier production, "A Thousand Clowns."

Wife of Dr. Dewey Urban, "Brownie" has a long list of theatrical accomplishments to her credit. She attended the Morse School of Expression in St. Louis and worked with Faye McAdams of the St. Louis Muny Opera. Further experience was gained through work in "starlight" summer theatres, membership in the Brighton Players in Illinois and in the Art Guild and Theatre Group in Alexandria, La.

She also has had a hand in the production of vaudeville shows for charity balls, pageant plays for various churches, one act plays for benefits and numerous children's plays. Aside from the production aspect of the theatre, Mrs. Urban has appeared in several plays -- "Midsummer Night's Dream" "The Man in the Green Shirt," and "Cherie."

Mrs. Urban is enthusiastic about the progress of this production and promises an evening of excellent entertainment for the membership of Little Theatre.

This is a comedy by Herb Gardner and was a top Broadway hit. The play begins at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Sikeston Junior High School. Those who have not bought memberships for this season's three productions may do so by calling Mrs. A. B. Smith. This year's bill of fare includes "A Thousand Clowns", "The Miracle Worker", and "The King and I."

Dear Santa;
Please bring me a Johnny Express, a cement mixer, some scoota Skats and a Richochet Rifle.
I'm 5 yrs. old. I've been a fairly good little boy. I don't expect all of these toys, just the ones you think best.
I have an 8 yr. old Sister, Penny. She would like a Baby Boo Doll and a Mary Poppins Doll.
I hope you have a nice Christmas.
Timmy Owens
Vanduser, Mo.

Dear Santa
For Christmas will you please bring me a hi-lift loader, a Johnny "7" O.M.A. gun, a book satchel, a tool set and a super crane. Thank you.

He is a VISTA volunteer assigned to the Sikeston area and is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley.

Mr. Stewart has much theatre experience with roles to his credit in such plays as "The American Dream" "Bartholomew Fair," "Don Juan," "Antony and Cleopatra" and "The Merchant of Venice."

The play will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Junior High School auditorium.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: The question is simply this: "To filch or not to filch." I don't mean from the supermarket. I mean from the wallet of a stingy husband.

For 20 years I lived like a pauper. I had to beg my husband for every extra dime. It was always, "Wait till next week" or, "I'm a little short right now--can't spare it."

One day I helped myself to $2 out of his billfold and 75¢ from his pocket. He never missed it. I've been at this routine for three years now and it's amazing how quickly the dimes, quarters and dollars have mounted in my private bank account.

For a God-fearing woman who was raised in a decent home I'm curiously immune to the pangs of conscience. I do not consider it stealing. If you wish to be analytical, you might describe this behavior as "subconscious revenge."

If this is true, Ann, revenge is sweet. My bank account is growing along with my confidence and my personal dignity. The greatest satisfaction stems from the knowledge that my husband, with all his penny-pinching, hasn't saved a cent and I have a healthy boodle.

What do you think of this? Right or wrong?--LIGHT FINGERED

Dear Light: Wrong. And all your fancy, high-falutin' rationalization doesn't make it right.

Of course it's rotten for a wife to have to beg for spending money and I don't blame you for being bitter. A wife is entitled to part of what her husband makes. And this is no hand-out, it's her due -- for being a homemaker and a partner.

Your healthy savings account is proof that the satisfaction you get from filching is more important than the money. If you really needed spending money you'd be spending it, not saving it.

Dear Ann Landers: We have been married less than a year. I am 18 and Gerald is 19. I say "married" but it sure hasn't been much of a marriage so far. We have not had two nights in a row together. Either he wants to go shoot pool, play cards, bowl, or go to a movie, or the stock car races or a ball game. I am never included in these nights out. They are strictly for the boys and all except Gerald are single.

When we are at home for an evening, either four or five of his buddies drop in or he goes to the phone and calls somebody. When I tell him I would like a night with just him he says, "I work hard all day driving a truck. At night I want to have some fun."

When we were going together I seemed to be plenty of fun for him. What happened? Help me, please.--LIKE IGNORED

Dear Ignored: Your sad story is a good example of what can happen when teen-agers legalize playing house. Neither of you was ready for marriage.

Bulldogs Meet Bearcats In Second Game Of Year

Sikeston's unseeded Bulldogs, who were picked in the preseason as a mediocre ball club, shot their way past the Cape Central Tigers, 62 to 48, for their first win Tuesday night in the Southeast Missouri Basketball Conference tournament at Dexter.

In the Bulldog's opening game Mike Couch, senior - forward, paced Sikeston's offense with 21 points. McKinley Lambert, senior - forward, who had an off-year last season, drilled 15 points for the Bulldogs.

Tomorrow night Sikeston meets second - seeded Dexter in the semi-finals of the winners bracket. The winner of that game will face the winner of the Kennett - Poplar Bluff game to be played tonight.

Bulldog Coach Gene Dawson expects the contest with the Bearcats to be a tough one, knowing in advance that the speed of Sikeston will be counted on heavily to come home with a win.

Dexter can shoot as well as the Bulldogs and are taller.

Dawson said: "We have similar styles. They have a larger team and use a full - court press. I expect that our speed will, if anything does, carry us through."

Poplar Bluff also has their work cut out for them tomorrow night. The Mules are lacking in height and experience.

In Tuesday night's game with Perryville, which was won 44 to 41 by Poplar Bluff, two sophomores saw a full game of action.

Bluff's record is one and one. They lost their first game with the number - one team in Southeast Missouri, the Bloomfield Wildcats, 63 to 47.

Perryville and Cape Girardeau play in the loser's bracket tonight.

All-State Football Teams

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis landed four players and Jefferson City two on the all senior Class L All-State football team named today by the Missouri Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association.

Aurora led the smaller schools by placing three players on the Class M and S All-State team.

End Mark Kuhlman of Normandy, guard Jerry MaGee of Soldan, center Tim Cronko of Cleveland, and back Gary Drewing of Christian Brothers College were the St. Louis players on the first team.

The Jefferson City Jays, unbeaten in 67 straight games, placed tackle Joel Allison and Jefferson City Helias had back Jon Staggers.

The rest of the line was composed of end Harold Fountain of Mexico, tackle Derrick McCord of Kansas City De LaSalle and guard Del Ray Shultz of Herculaneum. The other backs were Steve Kenemore of Lee's Summit and Butch Davis of Chillicothe.

Unbeaten Aurora, the Big Ten Conference champion, was represented on the Class M and S team by end Bob Journagen, guard Stan Rinker and back Bruce Huey.

Rounding out the squad were end Larry Andre of Platte City, tackles Bill Cochran of Pleasant Hill, and Elbert Anderson of Camdenton, guard Rich Jennings of Stanberry, center Larry Hoffman of Perryville St. Vincent and backs Larry Blackstun of Macon, Tom Dunn of Savannah and Trip Bishop of St. Louis John Burroughs.

Why is the ocean salty? The salts found in the ocean are one result of more than two billion years of disintegration of the igneous rocks of the earth's crust. The soluble materials remain in the ocean: the insoluble precipitates have formed sedimentary rocks and ocean sediments. Suspended material and dissolved salts, extracted from the rocks of the continents, are still carried to the sea by rivers.

This makes you an official member of the Payroll Savings Plan, entitled to all the rights and privileges thereof.

From now on saving money is no problem. Every payday, your employer sets aside a little from your check and puts it toward the purchase of a U. S. Savings Bond. Your savings come automatically. There's no temptation. No backsliding.

You can get your savings when you need them. But, of course, they'll be worth 33⅓% more if you wait until your Bonds reach maturity.

Being a Payroll Saver entitles you to feel pretty proud of yourself, too. Because your savings help protect your country's future as they help provide for your own.

Why not talk to your employer and get started saving regularly this payday? You'll be amazed at your new perseverance.

Keep freedom in your future with
U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

Garrett And Twilley Dominate

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Garrett and Howard Twilley, all-time major college ground gainer and pass receiver, are displayed prominently on the 1965 Associated Press All-America football team.

So are:

—The man who outdid Red Grange, Illinois fullback Jim Grabowski.

—Two repeaters: Texas Tech halfback Donny Anderson and Texas guard Tommy Nobis.

—A 160-pound, 23rd man: Princeton's Charley Gogolak, named to honor his unique, record-breaking talent and not as a precedent for future teams. The Hungarian - born, soccer-style booter place-kicked 81 points on 33-of-33 conversions and 16 field goals.

Sportswriters and broadcasters on the eight regional boards made the recommendations upon which the selections were based, including all games through Nov. 27.

The platoon-oriented squad lists Notre Dame's Nick Rassas, Johnny Roland of Missouri and George Webster of Michigan State as the defensive backs.

Defensively, the linebackers are Oklahoma's Carl McAdams, Tennessee's Frank Emanuel and Dwight Kelley of Ohio State. Brown and Ed Weisacosky of Miami are the ends, Nebraska's Walt Barnes and Arkansas' Lloyd Phillips the tackles and George Patton of Georgia the middle guard.

Garrett of Southern California, Heisman Trophy winner as Player of the Year, set a national collegiate three-year rushing mark of 3,168 yards, topping the old standard of 3,166 held by Ollie Matson.

Besides carrying the ball for 1,440 yards and 15 touchdowns, Garrett hauled in nine passes for 94 yards and a score, completed two of the four aerials he attempted for touchdowns and returned kicks 340 yards.

Heisman runner-up Twilley, at 5-feet-10, is the first lineman to win the NCAA scoring crown with 127 points. He snared 134 passes for 1,779 yards and 16 touchdowns to better every NCAA game and season record in sight.

Namath Leads the Rookies In Winning Their Spurs

BY MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (NEA) "You know," said the Buffalo observer watching Joe Namath fill the screen, "he could be the best quarterback in our league right now."

Namath was masterful as he led the New York Jets to a rout of the Houston Oilers and suddenly made them the hottest team in the American Football League.

His arrival as an accomplished pro points up the importance of the pro draft. Talk all you want to about rookies needing three years to adjust to the complexities of professional football, but the fact remains that with the dilution of talent, many of them are earning their keep immediately.

And don't try to tell Sonny Werblin, the Jets' owner, that the dimpled Hungarian from Beaver Falls, Pa., isn't worth the $400,000 investment.

Every pro scout you meet tells you that after the draft this coming weekend, the college kids will be impossible in their demands, even worse than last year.

If they can produce half as well as the 1965 crop of rookies, they'll be worth it.

In the National Football League, the New York Giants, the Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers were doormats a year ago. None could "establish," as Allie Sherman of the Giants might say, because their running attacks weren't respected.

So they all signed their No. 1 draft picks. For the Giants, Tucker Frederickson looms as the logical successor to Jimmy Brown as all-pro fullback when the Cleveland great quits; that is if he can beat out Ken Willard, who jacked up the 49ers with power running.

Gale Sayers' contributions to the Bears have been just fantastic. They've lost only one game a squeezer to the Baltimore Colts—since he started playing regularly after almost a month of the season had gone by. He's the hottest Chicago halfback since George McAfee.

Other rookies in other jobs have made equal impacts. For example, Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys and Fred Biletnikoff of the Oakland Raiders—a pair of flankers who have won regular jobs.

As part of their pitch for signing college kids, both leagues brag about the number of rookies who have made their squads. And that's why, in the absence of an amicable relationship, their pursuit of college kids is such bitter rivalry. A multimillion dollar television deal isn't worth a cent, as Werblin can tell you, unless you can produce a show worth selling.

MIAA All-Conference Teams Announced

KANSAS CITY AP -- Unanimous choices of coaches to the MIAA 1965 all-conference football team announced Wednesday were Sharron Washington of Maryville State and Mike Richardson of Kirksville State.

It was the second straight year in the select company for Richardson, a defensive back. Cornelius Perry, a Springfield State halfback, made the offensive team for the third year in a row. Washington also is an offensive back.

Richard Rhodes of Kirksville, a tackle, and John Kennedy, a Springfield guard, made both the offensive and defensive teams.

Kirksville, which successfully defended its MIAA championship this season, placed eight men on the first offensive and defensive teams.

The selections:

FIRST TEAM OFFENSE

Tackles -- Paul Webber, Cape Girardeau State, and Rhodes.

Guards -- Kennedy and Bill Stringer, Springfield State.

Center -- Dick Heinen, Maryville State.

FIRST TEAM DEFENSE

Ends -- Bob Holloman, Cape Girardeau, and Rhodes.

Tackles--Jim Redd, Maryville State, and John Dawson, Springfield.

Middle Guard--Kennedy.

SECOND TEAM OFFENSE

Tackles -- Jim Redd, Maryville, and Pat Talbert, Springfield.

Center -- John Tummons, Springfield.

Backs -- Leo Papas and Jim Blankenship, both of Maryville, and J. Jackson and Ron Villars, both of Kirksville.

SECOND TEAM DEFENSE

Middle Guard -- Sam McDowell, Springfield.

Most Cases Continued In Dunklin

KENNETT -- Most cases included in the proceedings of Dunklin county Circuit Court Monday, over which Judge Arthur U. Goodman, Jr., presided and Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker represented the State, were continued.

Francis Paul Prater, 53, of Campbell, charged with driving while intoxicated, received a six-month jail sentence and was paroled on condition of good behavior and payment of costs by May 20, 1966. Joseph Nicholas Arends, 21, of Malden, charged with driving while intoxicated, had his case dismissed upon payment of costs.

The bond of Marvin Isaac Bond, 48, of Risco was forfeited for failure to appear for trial on charges of driving while intoxicated. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Changes of venue to Pemiscot county were awarded to three defendants upon their application: Tony Henfling, 18, of Kennett, charged with statutory rape; Wayne Williams, 30, of Wardell, charged with passing a no funds check; and William Carey, 39, of Wichita, Kan., on two charges -- driving while intoxicated and possession of a deadly weapon while intoxicated.

The case of Hubert Brown, 26, of Kennett, charged with operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent was continued to Dec. 27. Continued to the February term of court was the case of Archie Holt, 30, of Senath, charged with disposing of mortgaged property.

Also continued to the February term of court were the cases of Clarence Miller, Sr., of Arbyrd, charged with exhibiting a deadly weapon and Clarence Miller, Jr., 23, of Arbyrd, charged with felonious assault.

Two cases, originally set for trial on Friday, were continued to the February term: Donald Miller, 17, of Arbyrd, charged with felonious assault and Billy Wayne Brooks, 23, of Clarkton, charged with robbery.

Two other cases, set for Tuesday, were continued to the February term: Billy Joe Goodrich, 33, of Arbyrd, charged with exhibiting a deadly weapon and Kloyce C. Howard, 41, of Malden, charged with passing a no funds check.

In the case of Carthel Ardel Overman, 41, of Malden, charged with felonious assault, Judge William L. Ragland, Judge of the 34th Judicial Circuit, was designated as special judge upon the defendant's application for disqualification of Arthur U. Goodman, Jr., regular judge.

The case of Ralph Murphy, charged with passing a no funds check was set for trial on Thursday.

The Plentiful Foods Story

A professional baseball team, a cow and a calf, and a hot dog 35 feet long have something in common. They all have been used to carry a message of plenty to U. S. consumers. The "plenty" in these instances were plentiful supplies of eggs, milk and dairy products, bread and other grains.

What goes into a promotion? Every meaningful attention-getter that ingenuity can devise. A phase of the egg promotion, for example, featured the St. Louis Cardinals at their Florida training camp feasting on five dozen eggs cooked in a gigantic frypan. The occasion gave the team physician an opportunity to recommen eggs to the players because of their high-protein content, and one player remarked that his family of six bought eggs by the crate. The episodes were filmed and the films distributed nationwide.

The cow and calf visited Cleveland schools to publicize "June is Dairy Month." and perhaps to show children where milk actually comes from.

The 35-foot long hot dog was concocted in Chicago to emphasize that "August is Sandwich Month." It was served to the King Family on their nationwide TV show.

Spearheading such promotions and other plentiful foods activity is the Plentiful Foods Program of the U. S Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

As a regular monthly service, the Department compiles a list of Plentiful Foods----employing its extensive fact-finding services to determine what foods will be plentiful and in need of additional merchandising attention. The list then goes to C & MS food distribution area officers where it may be modified to reflect regional conditions. The list, plus background information and merchandising suggestions, is widely distributed to the food trade well ahead of the month to which it applies in order to enlist cooperation in stimulating greater sales and consumption of the plentiful foods.

When foods face particularly difficult marketing problems, special promotions (like those for eggs, dairy products, and grain products) are undertaken at the request of the industry and in cooperation with the industry's own promotional efforts.

Plentiful Foods Program activities are designed to help insure a smooth orderly flow of foods through regular marketing channels--thus absorbingp productions excesses increasing farm income, and enabling the food trades to operate more efficiently and profitably. As this is accomplished, the consumer can continue to expect generous supplies of high quality foods.

Basically, this activity boils down to one fact--handling food marketing problems intelligently for the benefit of producers, food trades, and consumers. Extremely low prices for any foodstuff over an extended period of time would drive producers out of business and limit the great variety of food now available for consumers to enjoy.

GM Will Loosen Grip On Buses

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Motors Corp. has agreed to loosen its control in the manufacture and sale of buses.

The Justice Department says the company now handles 85 per cent of the nation's intercity and transit buses.

The company-government agreement reached Tuesday ended an antitrust hassle which began in mid-1956 when the government accused GM of conspiring with four bus operating companies to monopolize the bus market.

The case had been kept from trial for 9½ years because of legal maneuvers. It was scheduled to open later this month.

The settlement was filed in U. S. District Court in Detroit, but announced in Washington by Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach.

Among the provisions:

GM will allow other manufacturers to use all of its current bus patents without royalty payments.

On patents developed in the next five years, GM will charge no royalties during the first five years of their use.

All bus patents developed by GM in the next 10 years will be made available to competitors.

The agreement also gives the federal government authority to seek divestiture of some GM bus properties under certain conditions.

The antitrust suit had charged General Motors with conspiring with the Hertz Corp. of New York; Greyhound Corp. and National City Lines Inc., both of Chicago; and Public Service Coordinated Transport Co. of Newark, N. J.

Youth Crime-Suggested Treatments

It is time to start treating young outlaws as criminlas instead of as juvenile pranksters-that is the idea of some key law-enforcement officials.

Reason: Laws intended to protect youngsters actually are sheltering hardened criminals.

Are too many young criminals being treated as children?

This question is being discussed widely among law-enforcement officials as the number of crimes committed by youths continues to soar in the U. S.

What to do about the problem?

Some suggestions were made at a convention in Chicago of the Federal Bar Association, an organization of lawyers who are present or past employes of the Federal Government. Its 12,000 members include U. S. district attorneys.

One suggestion, made by Inspector H. Lynn Edwards, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was this:

"First of all, I think we must make a clear-cut distinction between "juvenile delinquency' and 'youthful criminality.' ...If we make this distinction, I am sure we will be able to approach the problem more realistically and demand that youthful criminals be treated more like adult criminals."

Such offenses as rape, robbery and assault, the FBI officer said "certainly, when committed by youths 16 years and older, deserve to be evaluated much the same way as we evaluate adult crime."

"Another suggestion," Inspector Edwards added, "is to begin fingerprinting youthful criminals and have their fingerprints . . . available to law enforcement when these youths commit further crimes.

"As it is now, with the cloak of secrecy wrapped around so many of these youthful criminals by the protection of the juvenile philosophy, the police never know for certain just how serious or lengthy a youth's criminal record might be.

"Another closely related suggestion," Inspector Edwards continues, "is to publicize the names of youths who commit serious crimes . . . I believe such publicity, in most instances, acts as a strong deterrent to future crimes by those whose names are published."

Juvenile-court procedures also were criticized by John E. Winters, deputy chief of police in Washington, D. C. He told the Bar Association meeting.

"Too many young thugs and hooldlums are being processed as children simply because they have not reached some magic age that would arbitrarily make them responsible for the consequences of their acts."

To deal with such youngsters, Deputy Chief Winters suggested:

"Remove from juvenile-court jurisdiction those older, sophisticated individuals who, by their records and actions, have become menaces to the community and treat them for what they are.

"For those individuals who are deemed to be beyond the purposes and facilities of juvenile court . . . establish a youth court.

"This court would function in the gray area of life between 16 and 21 years of age. It would operate as a criminal court . . ."

"Delinquency has increased 97 per cent in the District of Columbia during the past seven years. Reported crime has increased for 38 consecutive months.

"About one third of the most frequently committed serious crimes in the District of Columbia can be attributed to juveniles. Approximately 65 per cent of the juveniles arrested during the past fiscal year were repeaters.

"Even more significant were the records of 16 and 17-year-old juveniles accused of felonies. These are waivable cases (that can be shifted to regular criminal courts), and 76 per cent of these juveniles were treated as children.

"I challenge the wisdom of categorizing and treating confirmed delinquents in the upper age brackets as children. It is difficult to reconcile a well-established pattern of law violations or the commission of vicious and brutal crimes by older juveniles with the general understanding of the term 'children.'"

Deputy Chief Winters complained that technicalities too often prevent the full story of a youth's crime from being brought out in juvenile courts.

"It is a fact, also," he added, "that the court does not see the older, experienced and sophisticated juveniles as we (police) do. They do not exhibit the arrogance, defiance and contempt for law in the presence of the court's social workers or the court that they do so often in the presence of police.

"This is understandable. They have everything to gain and nothing to lose by standing before the court respectfully and politely, basking in the light of manufactures halos.

"Regardless of the disposition of the case, a juvenile should leave the courtroom with a feeling of respect--not fear. Too many do not, and you may be sure that their feelings and impressions are passed on to their contemporaries."

People Having Checking Accounts Will Understand

NEW YORK (AP) — If you've ever had trouble keeping your checking account balanced, then you can understand how things got out of hand the other day down at the bank.

For 24 hours at the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. $3 billion worth of checking account deposits went unbalanced.

It came about when the computer that does the bank's accounting developed a headache in its mechanical brain.

The computer, an International Business Machines Model 7074, makes daily tabulations of checking accounts. The bank handles about 700,000 transactions each day.

The machine was out from 11 a.m. Monday to 11 a.m. Tuesday. Four service men worked all Monday night to get it back into action.

According to a prearranged backup plan the work load should have been shifted immediately to equipment in other banks and in brokerage houses. But the equipment there was in use putting out monthly statements.

Eventually, the bank was able to use some standby equipment and got out its bookkeeping five hours late.

HERE'S WHAT'S NEW IN THE KITCHEN

Three little appliances for the kitchen are finding increasing favor with homemakers. One is an instant hot water device. The second is a plumbed-in coffee maker, and the third, an automatic ice maker. Women love them, reports the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, not only because they simplify meal preparation but they help to provide an easy answer to the eternal question: What to serve the unexpected guest in the way of quick-to-prepare liquid refreshment.

Hearty Cole Slaw

It's the season of the year when you can get both red and green cabbage to make a colorful slaw. To make that slaw filling enough for lunch, it's easy to cut 1 can (12 ounces) of luncheon meat into ½-inch cubes and mix with the cabbage and dressing.

Work? Not For Loew

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — As soon as he walked in the door, Frederick Loewe kicked off his shoes and loosened his tie. "I'm not used to wearing these," he explained to a visitor at his palatial desert home.

Loewe had returned from dedication ceremonies at the Palm Springs Hospital, to which he has donated royalties that may amount to a million dollars, plus other gifts of cash. It was a significant but brief interruption of the composer's daily routine, which is devoted to the pursuit of pleasure.

A small man whose energetic manner belies the fact that he suffered a massive heart attack eight years ago, Loewe sat down in his luxurious living room to explain his withdrawal from the musical theater.

"I quit on Dec. 3, 1960, the night that 'Camelot' opened on Broadway," he remarked. "I said I wasn't going to work any more. I was asked if that meant I was retiring. 'No,' I said, 'I'm simply not going to work any more.'"

And he hasn't. The grand piano, on which rested leather-bound scores he wrote for "Brigadoon," "Paint Your Wagon," "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot," remains untouched. Lowe said he hasn't the slightest urge to compose again.

"Why should I?" he asked. "I am having too good a time as it is. All that is required for my kind of life is a good liver, peace of mind, and good health. Fortunately, I have all three."

With his returns from the shows, especially the epochal "My Fair Lady," he can live like a king — and does. He spends two summer months aboard his yacht on the Riviera. He takes September to tour the major capitals -- Paris, London, Vienna New York.

Then he returns here for nine months amid the desert scenery he loves. He insisted on showing the visitor the 13½ acres he has transformed from a rocky wilderness into a minor Shangri-La. He proceeded at a lope, displaying with enthusiasm his automatic waterfall, a pond of goldfish that come when called, a garden where he grows roses the year around, a grassy plateau overlooking the full sweep of the desert.

Loewe is up with the sun and by 6:30 may be pruning his roses or riding horseback through the chaparral. After lunch he naps, then listens to music, reads or walks about the grounds. He seldom goes out for dinner preferring to entertain friends at his home.

Dear Mr. Blanton:

I appreciate very much the copies of the Standard you are sending to the Senior High School. Mrs. Wilkins is using them in her reading and English classes. I have been using them instead of a textbook in one World History class and find a greatly increased response and interest from the students. In fact, I am working out a year's course of study in the class based on the use of the newspaper instead of the traditional textbook. The papers are also useful in other Social Studies classes since all the teachers use current events as a part of the courses.

Sincerely yours,

British Seek To Resolve Troop Snag

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson rushed Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley to Zambia today to resolve a snag in arrangements to send British troops to protect the big Kariba Dam on Zambia's frontier with rebellious Rhodesia.

Wilson gave Bottomley full power to reach agreement with Zambia's President Kenneth Kaunda on the conditions under which the British force would operate.

Kaunda asked Britain to send troops after the power line from the dam to the Zambian copper belt was sabotaged last week. Kaunda said otherwise he would have to seek help elsewhere.

Wilson had planned to go before the House of Commons Tuesday night to announce that troops were on the way. But a last-minute hitch developed, apparently over British insistence that the troops should be used only on the Zambian side of the frontier.

Some reports said Kaunda or some members of his Cabinet insisted that the dam can be protected only if British troops are stationed on the Rhodesian side of the big power installation.

Some sources said Wilson had been reluctant to have British troops stationed near the border because he feared incidents might occur accidentally that would increase the bitterness between the British and Rhodesian governments.

But Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith said Tuesday night he would welcome British troops on the Zambian side of the dam.

Smith indicated, however, that his forces would resist if the British troops crossed the border.

The Kariba Dam forms a 2,000-square-mile lake on the Zambezi River, the frontier between Zambia and Rhodesia. Its hydroelectric plants power the mines of the Zambian copper belt and Rhodesia's booming consumer industries. It is administered jointly by the Rhodesian and Zambian governments, but all the power plant now in operation is on the Rhodesian side.

PRAYER
For Today From The Upper Room

It is an agonizing situation, and who on earth can set me free from the clutches of my own sinful nature? (Romans 7:34, Phillips)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for the sense of freedom and peace that comes to us when we surrender to Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord. We pray that our lives may be a constant witness to Hs saving and keeping power. In His name we ask, praying as He taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . .Amen."

Hospital Aid Plan Revised

JEFFERSON CITY - The State Hospital Advisory Council announced today it has revised the plan for allocating federal construction aid to Missouri hospitals.

The plan will be submitted to the surgeon general's office for approval.

Missouri has been allocated $5,422,694 in federal funds this year but requests for construction aid total almost $53 million. In addition 14 applicants who got funds in the past two years have asked for another $5 million to complete their projects.

The council decided that in the future the aid granted to any one applicant should be limited to $1 million or 50 per cent of the total estimated cost, whichever is less.

In addition, no extra funds will be provided to complete a previously approved project or expand it.

As in the past, priority will be given to nursing homes operating long term care programs.

President Johnson Trods Lonely Path

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

In the past few days there has been a burst of talk about various forms of international get-together. Meanwhile, Johnson must make the decisions on stepping up the war in Viet Nam. The picture isn't pretty there.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, just returned from Viet Nam, said, "It will be a long road ahead." He didn't say this country is winning. He just said, "We've stopped losing the war."

This country has about 165,000 troops in Viet Nam. Reports say the number will go to 300,000. Will it? McNamara wouldn't say. That's Johnson's decision.

One of the reasons for this country's bombing of North Viet Nam since February was to reduce the flow of North Vietnamese soldiers into South Viet Nam. But McNamara says now they are tripling the rate of infiltration.

The bombing will be intensified. Johnson must decide how much and were. Critics want Hanoi, the Red capital, bombed. But this might bring Red China into the war. Johnson has to think of that, too.

This week the United Nations General Assembly, without one dissent, voted for a world disarmament conference no later than 1967, with Red China invited. The United States and the Soviet Union voted together on this.

But — while this country said it would be willing to sit down with the Chinese on preliminary negotiations, it refrained from saying it would take part in the conference itself.

And one day later the Soviet Union charged this country is flooding and endangering Western Europe with nuclear weapons.

Tuesday night French President Charles de Gaulle, appealing to his people to re-elect him by telling them they couldn't do without him, took a crack at the United States by calling the Vietnamese war "stupid."

And, while assuring this country and his European partners that France was a staunch ally, he warned France would cooperate with them only as she pleased.

A two-week Inter-American Conference at Rio de Janeiro ended Tuesday on a high note of far-reaching proposals which, if they ever became a reality, would transform Latin America into a new, modern and prosperous world.

For instance: a great society for the hemisphere, a halt to inflation, better living conditions, land reform, and a reduction in trade restrictions. The United States took part in all this.

But this country, criticized for butting into the Dominican Republic's revolt to prevent a Communist take-over, wanted the conference to agree in the future all Latin America would join in such an intervention.

There was a lot of opposition and the United States shoved the idea aside.

Here in Washington a group of American specialists on foreign affairs recommended at the White House Conference on International Cooperation stronger efforts to get along with the Soviet Union. But some of the efforts proposed might damage this country's European alliances.

Runaway Girl Returns Home

ENCINO, Calif. AP -- Mary Wilson, 16, who ran away to work in a Bangkok, Thailand, orphanage, is home again.

Miss Wilson's arrival at home Wednesday night was almost as quiet as her departure 12 days earlier.

Look Alike-Think Alike
Harry F. Byrd, Sr. And Jr.

Harry Flood Byrd, Jr., appointed to succeed his retired father in the Senate, bears a striking physical resemblance to him. The new Senator's record shows that he also shares his father's political philosophy.

Recent comments back up this view. On November 15, when Virginia's new Democratic Senator took office, he made the following points in response to questions:

On political labels, he rejects being tagged either "conservative" or "liberal," prefers to judge each piece of legislation on its merits.

Questioned about repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act's section 14(b) which permits the States to have "right to work" laws, he said he opposes repeal.

Asked whether or not he expects to follow the political course marked by his father, he replied: "I think Senator Byrd made a wonderful record. Now I will do my best to make my own."

Thus far, the Senator's record includes newspaper editing and publishing, management of the family orchards and a long career in the State legislature. He studied at Virginia Military Institute and the University of Virginia before commencing his newspaper career as an editorial writer on "The Winchester Evening Star," which has been published by his grandfather and by his father. Within a year, young Byrd had become editor and publisher.

With his two younger brothers, Senator Byrd, 50, has been active in the management of H. F. Byrd, Inc., the largest apple-growing establishment in the world.

In accepting his appointment, he admitted, "It is difficult to imagine a more challenging assignment than attempting to follow Senator Byrd." But following him he is. And that includes, says the Senator making the Senate race on his own in 1966.

Political observers believe the new Senator may face a real challenge. The Republican Party enjoys increasing strength in Virginia now, and the Negro vote is a growing force. It is thought unlikely that Mr. Byrd's candidacy will mean automatic victory, as it so regularly did for his father.

Telephone Wire Rolled, Service Stops

UKIAH, Calif. AP -- When telephones suddenly stopped working in areas of Mendocino County during November, many residents were ready to storm the telephone company offices to demand better service.

Sheriff's deputies reported Tuesday they had discovered the cause. Telephone wire had been clipped in remote spots and rolled up on spools to be sold as junk in the San Francisco area.

In all, nine miles of wire was snipped in five separate raids. Arrested and jailed on felony charges of cutting telephone lines were David Phillips, 18, of Carrollton, Ga.; and three Ukiah, Calif., men; Alex Hannah, 27, his brother James, 21, and John Shroyer, 26.

One day in basic training, a two-star general was inspecting the mess halls and went up to one of the basic airmen and asked, "Well, what's the food like here, son?"

"We fight over it all the time, The general looked pleased. "That good, huh?

"Well, not quite, sir," he was told. The loser has to eat it.

State to Profit From Old Coins

BROOKFIELD, Mo. AP -- The old coins which Mary Trimble stashed in a two-gallon bucket in her shed will be auctioned Sunday, but the state probably will get the proceeds.

Born a slave, Mary Trimble died in February when fire burned her home at nearby Linneus. Some acquaintances reckoned her age at 100 or more. She had a reputation for frugality, regularly putting away part of her earnings as a domestic servant.

The two-gallon bucket in the shed yielded 874 coins dating from 1878 to 1946. They have a face value of $405. They haven't been appraised as collectors' items.

From the buned out house, investigators salvaged charred and partly burned bills redeemed by the U. S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve Bank for $2,900. Most of the bills were the big old ones discontinued in the 1930s.

Walter Erwin, county administrator, speculates more money was lost in the fire. He bases this on the fact the newest coin in the bucket was dated in 1946.

Mary Trimble's daughter, Mrs. Stella Botts of Washington, has not entered a claim for the money; but Missouri did. It seeks to recover the $7,900 it granted to Mary Trimble over the years in old age assistance payments.

Father, Son Meet After Long Absence

BERGAMO, Italy AP--Nicola Comelli, 88, and his son Pietro met Tuesday for the first time in 20 years.

Moments after the meeting Pietro, 55, who had been living in Sardinia, suffered a heart attack and died.

His shocked father died a few hours later of another heart attack.

It's just plain bad planning on nature's part, having the days shortest when there is most to do.

Capital Not Same Since Truman Era

VIET NAM
By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This place hasn't been the same since the fiery and colorful days of President Harry S. Truman who knocked heads with Congress and anyone who got him mad enough.

Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy tried to play it cool — in public — no matter how overheated they got in private. President Johnson is trying the same, with a twist of his own.

Ice, the poet Robert Frost said, can be as effective as fire. And Johnson has been using the ice treatment on Sen. J. W. Fulbright, an Arkansas Democrat but one of the President critics.

It's hardly a secret Fulbright infuriated Johnson when he blasted the use of troops in the Dominican Republic revolt. Johnson said nothing publicly.

When Fulbright, who has been at odds with Johnson over the Viet Nam war policy, suggested a suspension of the bombings, the President let his press secretary, Bill D. Moyers, answer for him. Moyers said it would do no good.

Some of Fulbright's fellow senators said he wrote Johnson a get-well note when the President was hospitalized last October and got in a reply a note from a staff member.

Then early last month Johnson approved a big fact-finding trip to Europe and Asia — including a Kremlin conference — by five senators headed by Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic leader.

Mansfield said he had discussed it with Johnson for months. Fulbright, as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, might have seemed the logical man to head such a mission.

But it is known Fulbright was surprised by the news. And his committee had never authorized the trip. Fulbright, meanwhile, was to head a group of senators going to a minor conference in New Zealand.

Whereas Mansfield's team traveled by Air Force jet, Fulbright's was told it would have to get slower planes or commercial transportation. Then followed a strange coincidence — if it can be called that.

On his way to New Zealand Fulbright stopped off last Thursday in Australia and was asked by newsmen if he thought enough Australians were fighting beside Americans in South Viet Nam.

He had to ask how many were there, although he heads the Foreign Relations Committee and has had things to say about the war. When told the figure was 1,000, he said that number was very small when compared with the 165,000 Americans in South Viet Nam.

Some Australians interpreted his remark as belittling their war effort. Monday Fulbright called off a news conference. The next day Johnson sent a message to the Australians, praising their efforts in South Viet Nam.

They could interpret this — and so could anyone else — as Johnson's way of saying the American government knew what was going on in Viet Nam if the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee didn't.

Northrop FS Probationer In Viet Nam

Maj. Alfred Hopkins, Killeen, Tex., reports another nickname is the Skoshi Tiger. Skoshi is Japanese for little.

Hopkins is operations officer for a provisional squadron carrying out an exhaustive 120-day test of a dozen of the needlenosed F5s, weighing assets against some obvious drawbacks.

The F5 has a wing span of 26 feet, 7 inches and a maximum take-off weight of 19,000 pounds. It can carry only about one-third of the bomb load of McDonnell's F4 Phantom, a standard weapon of both the U.S. Air Force and Navy that has a maximum take-off weight of more than 40,000 pounds.

Top speed of the F5 is Mach 1.4, or about 1,000 miles an hour. However, its normal operating range is short.

The F5 has been sold to some allies of the United States, but still lacks an Air Force contract.

In its present form, the F5 appears to be a far cry from the perfect answer to problems of the air war against the Communist guerrillas.

The ideal would be a subsonic jet with a high bomb-carrying capability and fairly long range. The plane which probably most nearly approximates this is the A6 Navy attack plane, which is not carrying out air assaults in South Viet Nam at present.

Three of the F5s, dressed in their dull brown and green camouflage paint and each carrying two 750-pound bombs, streaked off the runway at Bien Hoa air base last Saturday for an attack against a Viet Cong stronghold.

In flight, the planes were diverted to help a Vietnamese regiment which was being destroyed by a Viet Cong assault force only 45 miles northwest of Saigon.

The planes were delayed once when Guam-based B52s began unloading bombs near the fighting zone. Then they were told: "Get out of the way. We have artillery going in here."

Nervously watching his fuel gauges, the flight leader finally radioed: "We have to strike now or never. Give us a target."

The pilots were cleared to make their runs ahead of other aircraft and dropped all their bombs on the first pass instead of laying them in normally, one at a time.

They didn't have time to make strafing runs with their 20mm cannons, but their bombs were right on target.

Completing a 30-mile flight back to Bien Hoa, the F5 pilots asked for and got priority over other aircraft waiting to land.

Range limitations—pilots call such planes short-legged-probably can be overcome by adding larger auxiliary fuel tanks. But the payload maximum of four bombs probably cannot be increased.

Maj. Roy L. Holbrook, 37, Albemarle, N.C., one of the F5 pilots, praises the plane. He said it is easy to maintain and can be refueled, rearmed and sent out for successive missions quickly. He terms it relatively cheap, simple and reliable. The going price is about $750,000.

Presumably, if the Air Force feels the plane is useful, it will buy some and form squadrons for Viet Nam.

The Navy and Air Force jets in Viet Nam now, with exception of the Navy A4 Skyhawk, were designed primarily as fighters and none can stay in the air for long periods with heavy bomb loads.

The A1 prop-driven Skyraider fills this role, but because of its slow speed cannot get to military hot spots quickly.

The Viet Cong often times its attack between air strikes after one flight of jets comes in, drops its bombs and strafes, and before the next group arrives.

Factory Pay Rises Faster Than Costs

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —The factory worker's paycheck has been rising faster than the cost of living—his government tells him. A lot of other folk probably are less lucky. And some factory workers may have their doubts as the monthly bills pour in this week.

The cost of living has taken a marked spurt this fall for everyone. The factory worker is called lucky because the government says that on average his take-home pay has gone up enough to cover the additional costs, with something left over.

The total of personal incomes has risen sharply, too, although many a man struggling with the family budget in this big spending month may think the government must be talking about somebody else.

The figuring is done by comparing government indexes.

One, the consumer price index, has climbed to a record 110.4 per cent of the 1957-59 average and is still climbing. In October it stood 1.9 higher than a year ago. That means that what $10.85 would buy then costs you $11.04 today. All you need, presumably, are those 19 cents.

The other, the index of average weekly take-home pay for a factory worker with three dependents, has risen to 116.1 per cent of its 1957-59 average and is up 4.8 from its 111.3 per cent level in October 1964. From that the government statisticians deduce that factory pay has risen more than has the cost of living.

Put another way, the government says that this October its average factory worker took home $97.82 each week, and has $5.64 a week more this year than last with which to meet the monthly bills.

But whether your own income has gone up that much or not, the upward spurt in the cost of living is no joke. And top government officials are reported trying to think up ways to slow down the advance.

Of the major divisions in the Labor Department's consumer price index, only personal care is reported less costly than a year ago. It is down 0.6 per cent this year to 109.2 of its 1957-59 average.

Contract To Cape Firm

DEXTER — The Missouri state highway commission has awarded Steinhoff and Kirkwood and Mid-South Construction Inc. of Cape Girardeau, a contract for improving a section of state supplementary Route AA, in Stoddard County.

The project is for about a tenth of a mile of grading and gravel or crushed stone surfacing at Bloomfield. Total cost for this work is $17,878.

The contractors have been notified that they may begin working about Dec. 13.

Construction will be carried out under the supervision of the Department's District 10 office at Sikeston, where W. D. Carney is the district engineer. D. O. Sprout, district construction engineer, will direct the work with A. C. Cato of Dexter as the resident engineer in active charge.

Armed Forces

George Anthony Kappler of Sikeston, recently enlisted in the U. S. Army for a period of Three Years, it was reported today by Staff Sergeant A. B. Ledbetter of the U. S. Army Recruiting Station in Sikeston, Mo. Private Kappler enlisted under the Army's "High School Graduate - Specialist" program and chose to enlist for training in the Ordnance Supply Parts Specialist. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert I. Kappler, reside at 235 East Kathleen, Sikeston, Mo. For more information about the "Graduate Specialist" program contact Sgt. Ledbetter at Sikeston or call GR 1-3419.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, Ark. -- According to Department of Defense officials, the department has authorized a limited airlift to carry Christmas gifts from the American people to U. S. servicemen in Viet Nam. Termed "Christmas Star", the airlift is required by the heavy load of items various groups have collected to demonstrate their support of the U. S. effort in Viet Nam.

The packages, when finally collected, will be transported by aircraft assigned to the Air Force Reserve within the continental U. S. to points designated by the Continental Air Command. From these points they will be transported to Viet Nam by longer range Air National Guard aircraft.

All packages will be accepted as long as they are not marked for specific groups or individuals. Persons desiring to send gifts should contact their local civic or veteran's organizations.

Recreational Center Loan In Prospect

BLOOMFIELD - The Farmers Home Administration has tentatively agreed to approve a $115,000 private business loan to aid in financing a recreational center, D. L. Bess, Bloomfield postmaster, says.

The loan will be made to Crowley's Ridge Recreational Center, Inc., for construction of a golf course, clubhouse, swimming pool, four-acre lake, picnic and boating facilities and tennis courts . The project involves 92 acres.

Bess, a spokesman for the corporation, said the organization applied for the loan about six months ago after its membership reached 111 paid members. Now that government approval has been tentatively secured, he said the membership should increase to more than 150.

The clubhouse and swimming pool should be finished by next season, he said, but the golf course may take longer.

The loan will be obtained through the Rural Recreational Program, a plan under which more than 3,000 towns with populations of less than 2,500 have received loans of up to $500,000 each.

Bloomfield, a town with a population of 1,330, is the only community in the immediate area that has received such a loan.

Woman Believes Debt Overpaid

TOLEDO, Ohio AP -- Ethel Miller received $45 in the mail recently, accompanied by an unsigned letter that read:

"I believe this is the amount I found. Please forgive me, for it was badly needed."

"I do forgive him, oh, I do," said the suburban Rossford woman. "It must have preyed on his mind."

But Mrs. Miller thinks the debt has been overpaid. She believes there was only $29 in her purse when she lost it in 1923.

Jet Crash Triggers Fire

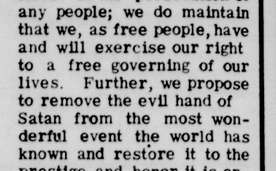
ANCHORAGE, Alaska AP -- A jet fighter plane slid into a hangar while landing at Elmendorf Air Force Base Tuesday night, setting a fire which destroyed the $1.2-million building.

The pilot, Lt. Col. Francis R. Lawson of the 325th Fighter Wing, McChord Air Force Base, near Tacoma, Wash., escaped but suffered a back sprain and was placed in a hospital.

The F106 was completing a flight from Elelson Air Force Base, near Fairbanks. It slid into the back of the hangar, which housed three planes which firemen managed to remove.

Young Lady Packs Pistol

HARTFORD, Conn. AP--Alex Sellock, owner of a downtown shop, says he was trying to fit an attractive young lady with a pair of fur-lined boots when she pointed a small pistol at him and ordered him into the storeroom. Then she made off with $50 from the cash register Tuesday night.



Let patience have its perfect work.—(James 1:4)

We can avoid becoming impatient with others if we keep in mind the fact that Jesus Christ always exercised the utmost in patience in His association with His disciples and with all with whom He came into contact. We should, in effect, be "patient with the patience of Christ."

HEAR YE AMERICA;

there are in our land today those who say we are weak and are a defeated people; and in a sense they are correct. but in truth they are wrong. It is true that our land today is in the hands of corrupt men who are destroying our freedom and our Heritage of free men and women that our forefathers gave their lives for in order that we and our children and their children should have the right to live a good and decent life but we do not enjoy the fruits of their sacrifices for the principals of Human Life that they gave their lives for is gone; and in its stead has been brought upon us Tyranny and Persecution by our own government. But we, as free American citizens, do not and will not accept the defeat of our Heritage of free people as proclaimed by God and our forefathers. What is not known to Americans is the fact that God promised us even before this was America, that we would be a land of God and that He would protect us. He promised that no enemy would inhabit our homes and that no enemy would eat the fruits of our vineyards. He has kept that promise. Remember Pearl Harbor? But not one Japanese bomb fell on this land, there never had, and never will be an enemy bomb on this land. So as God has kept his promise to us, let us prove our pledge to him. Towit: In God We Trust. I repeat, Let Us Prove It. Let us begin by reclaiming and regaining our Heritage, by banding together in the most powerful movement the world has ever known, The National Christian Crusaders of America. Our pledge to return our government to clean, decent reputable men and women by removing from our government the hoodlum political bosses who now have robbed us of our Rights. We shall cease to pay blackmail to the evil world in the so-called "foreign aid", we shall cease to subsidize at public expense, which is our money for adultery and whoredom for which our money is now being used. Though we do not believe in the persecution of any people; we do maintain that we, as free people, have and will exercise our right to a free governing of our lives. Further, we propose to remove the evil hand of Satan from the most wonderful event the world has known and restore it to the prestige and honor it is entitled to; the birth of our Blessed Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. So let's arise America and throw off the Yoke of Bondage and again enjoy the freedom for which is our Heritage. For the word of God says "when the righteous rule, the people rejoice. Let us again bring happiness and real rejoicing to our lives and the only fear we have to fear is fear itself. God said without me, you can do nothing but in Me, you are strong and nothing can stand against you. Let us return to our God. Enroll today in the National Christian Crusaders of America.

Biggest U.S. Storm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —The 1965 hurricane season, which spawned the most destructive storm in U.S. history, comprised two tropical storms and four hurricanes between June 1 and Nov. 30.

The one hurricane that reached the U.S. mainland was Betsy, which slammed into Miami on Sept. 8, then roared across the gulf of Mexico and battered New Orleans two days later.

Betsy left 75 persons dead in Florida and Louisiana and a damage toll of more than a billion dollars. The previous record holder was a storm in 1955 which caused $800 million damage in New England.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Rhode Island will require an eye test for all drivers reaching age 65.

The State Registry of Motor Vehicles announced the requirement will be instituted next spring. The present system of vision tests at age 70 will be continued.

TOKYO (AP) —The Japanese government says that Japan's population reached 98,281,955 on Oct. 1, an increase of 4,860,000 or 5.2 per cent over 1960. It said there was an average 266 persons per one square kilometer.

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) —A princess of about 20 years of age who lived 2,500 years ago has been found in a treasure-laden apartment-sized tomb near the Bulgarian town of Vratsa, the news agency BTA reports.

The princess was a member of the Thracian aristocracy, and was bedecked with golden earrings showing sirens, gold spangles, and gold buttons. Arrows, spears, clay vessels, and a mirror were found in the tomb.

Today in U.S. History

Today's highlight in hisotyr:

On this date in 1823, the Monroe Doctrine was enunciated by President James Monroe.

On this date

In 1863, ground was broken for the Union Pacific Railway.

In 1952, the birth of a baby was publicly televised for the first time.

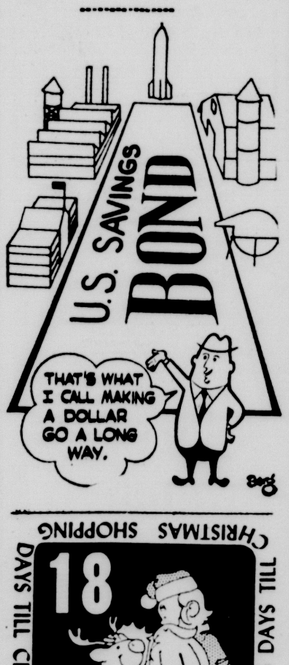
Ten years ago—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles aroused a storm of protest in India by his reference to Goa, a disputed Portuguese enclave in India, as a "Portuguese province."

Five years ago — The White Houst announced that President Eisenhower had authorized the use of up to one million dollars for the relief and resettlement of Cuban refugees in southern Florida.

One year ago — Former Argentine dictator Juan Peron flew from Spain to Brazil in an attempt to return to his country; Brazil sent him back to Spain.



CHIC CHICK—For a visitor to the site of Expo 67, the next world's fair now under construction at Montreal, a suitable safety headgear, stenciled with the distinctive double-y symbol, is provided. It made an unusual chapeaux for Linda Douma, Miss Canada, on her recent visit.

FLAMES THAT SAVE

Cecil Clay, farmer on Route 2, Essex, does not hesitate to tell you if he has machinery that will help him make a success of farming.

His Texgas flame cultivator is one that has helped him greatly on his 480-acre farm, on which he raises cotton, corn and beans.

"I bought my flame cultivator because my son and I have to have our work done. Anyone that drives a tractor, can handle this piece of equipment."

"I use pre-emerge chemicals with it, and the combination is like money in the bank for any farmer."

"I've had my flame cultivator almost four years, and the only thing that can wear out are the rubber hose connections which I may have to change sometime."

"It's the handiest piece of equipment I have, and since I had to buy some larger equipment, since it's almost impossible to get extra labor, I have something here I can depend on to get out my crops."

"We flame our crop as soon as the bark forms on the plant and come back a short time later, which assures the plant-life between the rows to be killed before it comes through."

"As long as you set the flame right, it will never hurt your plants, and found it out after a demonstration was made through eight rows of cotton. I thought sure they had burned up these rows, but a month later the cotton matured the same as the rows that had not been touched, but minus all grass and weeds."

"I never fail to use the flame cultivator when the grass and weeds are small. If I want more corn, I plant it, put on the chemicals and flame it, and then forget about plowing it."

"The proof to this was 40 to 60 more bushels of corn per acre."

Burial will be in the Oak Grove cemetery.

Warmer Air In Deep South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A hard freeze chilled the Deep South during the night but warmer air moved into the area as the day progressed, signalling an end to the cold snap. Temperatures were near or above normal in other parts of the nation.

Mercury readings in the 20s this morning spread from Alabama across the Carolinas and the freezing line extended into parts of northern Florida.

Moist southerly winds floated northward through the center of the country, spreading rain from Texas to Missouri and Illinois. The rainfall was light.

Doctors to Refuse Role in Medicare

CHICAGO AP -- More than 50,000 doctors will refuse to take part in the federal medicare program, says an official of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons.

Harry E. Northam, the association's executive director, said Wednesday he based his figure on letters and actions of local and state medical societies.

Johnson Asks For Restraint

U.S. Business Urged To Hold Price

JOHNSON CITY, Tex.(AP)—President Johnson told top business leaders today he expects record prosperity without inflation in 1966. He called for wage-price restraint to help achieve that.

In an address prepared for delivery by telephone to the blue-ribbon Business Council, meeting in closed session in Washington, Johnson called for cooperative decisions by industry, labor and government to keep wages and prices in line with federal guideposts designed to guard against inflation.

In so doing, he cited the sacrifices of American troops in Viet Nam, saying: "We must support them from here as they support each other there. We must equal their sacrifice and uphold their cause. . ."

At the same time, he restated his offer of unconditional talks aimed at ending the Viet Nam conflict - an increasingly costly war that has sparked public discussion of potential inflationary pressures in the months ahead.

Said Johnson:

"I have said it before. I say it again now. This nation is ready to talk, unconditionally, anywhere, with peace as our agenda.

"Peace will come because it must. It will come from courage, from constancy, and from concern. It will come because there is no other answer.

"Peace is our commitment. Peace is our goal. Peace will be the only victory we seek. And peace will come."

For them he offered this forecast:

"We expect next year to be another record year for the American economy. We are ever alert to danger signs, of course, and when we see them, we will act accordingly. But we do not anticipate any major problem that confidence and cooperation cannot solve."

The chief executive noted that wholesale prices have risen 2.3 per cent in the past 12 months while consumer prices have risen 1.8 per cent.

"This situation has now fairly stabilized," he said, "and we do not expect such an outbreak next year. In the past four months both wholesale prices and consumer prices have been advancing at a rate of less than 1 per cent a year."

Johnson said that while needs are growing—partly because of the Viet Nam war—the economy is growing, too.

"We can produce the goods and services we require without 'over-heating' our economy," he asserted.

Many of the biggest names in American industry, trade and finance are represented on the 125-member council. It acts as an unnofficial government advisory group.

Johnson's decision to address the business leaders coincided with increased public discussion of inflation pressures that might grow out of multi-billion-dollar federal outlays for the war in Viet Nam.

It also came at a time when Johnson's normally harmonious relations with the business world had become something of a question mark because of administration efforts to hold down prices and interest rates.

Messer Pastor At Trinity

Trinity Baptist church has called Dr. Thomas S. Messer to serve as interim pastor.

Dr. Messer has for 14 years served as director of the Baptist student center, chair of Bible at Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau.

He received his bachelor of arts degree at the University of Southern Mississippi in Hattiesburg; master of theology and doctor of theology degrees from New Orleans Baptist seminary, and has completed post-graduate study in philosophy at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland.

Dr. Messer, in addition to his teaching and preaching activities, writes adult Sunday school lessons for the Baptist Sunday School board in Nashville, Tenn.

More than two and one-quarter million copies of the lesson material in more than 40 languages is circulated in 70 nations.

Dr. Messer recently wrote the lessons on Matthew. He is now writing adult lessons on the Book of Acts.

In 1955, after world travels and detailed studies in the Holy Lands, he authored a book titled "Walking Where Jesus Walked."

He has since traveled in more than 35 nations, made a trip around the world. He served last year in the Baptist ministers' Australian crusade.

Cotton Program Details Related

Hilton Bracey

Hilton Bracey, Portageville, executive vice-president of the Missouri Cotton Producers Association, told his audience that the 1966 program will be a decided change from previous programs, and the grower has a choice of complying or changing to some other farming method.

"You can't depend entirely on government prices, because one Congress can't bind another," said Bracey. "We can't outguess the Viet Nam struggle, and this alone may change the whole future picture.

"Why then grow cotton?" He gave seven reasons why this should be done.

"To protect our land values, utilize the best farm machinery known to man, maintain modern handling and storage facilities, lower the cost unit, continue to provide employment, and support the economies of cotton producing areas.

"A man should ask himself if he wants to get out of the cotton business, then cut to the 65 per cent program. You must work out your own figures and make your own choice. No man can always figure the best way to go on his own farm."

"This is not the type of program we like to bring you, because it often works in the opposite direction. Cotton exports average one out of three bales in 1960, and are now down to 25 per cent. The trend today is closing ranks between surpluses and production and by 1970 will have closed ranks.

"The 1966 to 1969 program calls for 16 million acres, and will be an annual affair. The domestic allotment will be received by Christmas and will be 65 per cent of what you have, and in 1966 will be 87 1/2 per cent. The loan in 1966 will be 21 cents and in 1967 and thereafter will not be more than 90 per cent of the world price."

"Farmers from 1966-69 may retire land under five to ten year controls, and have one surplus crop put in the program. There cannot be more than 10 per cent of county allotment retired in any one year. Six cents is the established price.

"Acreage not planted because of natural disaster, from floods, drought, can be planted to cotton acreage if it is not devoted to other income producing crop in that year. One-half of the payment will be made when signing up, the other half in the middle of the year.

"On domestic and export prices, the 1966 levels will drop five and three-fourths cents. The price support will equal the difference between loan and 65 per cent of parity on permitted acreage.

"The diversion payment is 10- and one-half cents per pound, and diverted from cotton into conservation uses. The price support and diversion based on projected yield cannot be less than normal 610 pounds or 725 pounds.

"An example on payments between landlords and tenants would be on 100 acres; 65 acres of 500 pounds times 30.42 cents (21-cent loan plus 9.42 cents payment, would equal $9,886.50. The 35 acres of 500 pounds times 10.5 cents (land retirement payment, equals $1,837.50, for a total of $11,724. The landlord would receive $3,390.37, and the tenant $3,523.63. This would be a 1966 minimum planting.

"Acreage taken out of usage must be for conservation usage and not over 5 and one-fourth acres on 10 acres. In the case of skip row planting, it would be two rows cotton and one skip or 66 and two-thirds. The second year it would be two and two. As an example, on 100 acres would be reduced 12 and one-half per cent to 25 per cent, and four and four row skip and 75 per cent. We don't think this will cut down on production."

"The transfer of allotment is new, with the transfer being permanent upon sale of the land. If a man buys an allotment it belongs to him from then on, and has nothing to do with the four-year program. But you must wait five years to buy another allotment, and you cannot buy and sell an allotment in the same year. The lease stays with the farm where it originates.

"The export market acreage reserve of 250,000 acres has been established in 1966. All of this cotton must go out of the United States and will have no price support."

Miami Awaits Second Plane of Refugees

MIAMI, Fla. AP -- A second planeload of refugees in a daily U. S.-financed air shuttle from Cuba was awaited today even as some of the first arrivals embarked on a new life in the north.

Ten hours after 75 refugees from the Communist-ruled island landed Wednesday, a family group of six donned donated overcoats and boarded a plane to join relatives in Elizabeth, N. J. Others prepared to leave for other points.

Youth Corps Project Okayed

WASHINGTON -- A neighborhood Youth Corps project for 30 in-school enrollees in the Richland R-4 school district at Essex, Mo., was one of six in Missouri, approved by the Labor Department, it was announced today.

The total cost is $16,160 of which the federal government will provide $13,760.

New Draft on Birth Control

VATICAN CITY AP -- A new draft of the Vatican Ecumenical Council's statement on birth control urges further study of contraception, thus leaving the question "more than open," informed sources said today.

The informants said this sets the stage for possible changes in the Church's future attitude, making clear that while past teachings against contraception still are valid, this is not necessarily the final word.

Pope Paul VI is expected to make an interim statement on birth control Tuesday when the modern world schema--of which the contraception question is a part--will be promulgated as a council decree.

Bootheel Educators To Take Deep Look At Need For Junior College

Forty high school superintendents and others associated with Southeast Missouri public schools decided yesterday to take a deeper look into the Bootheel's need for a junior college.

The gathering at the Country Club decided to establish a committee to study the possibilities of locating such a college in the area.

Lynn Twitty, Sikeston superintendent of schools, who called the meeting, has emphasized the need to provide vocational training beyond high school, but a junior college also would offer undergraduate courses, which could be applied toward a liberal arts degree.

Each school district in a six-county area - - Stoddard, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Scott and Dunklin counties-- will appoint one member to a county committee. The county groups then will select one member for a six-county committee to explore the junior college possibilities.

A meeting will be held in Dexter next month.

A specific location for the college was not discussed but Fred Davis, Jefferson City, director of junior colleges for the state department of education, told how a site might be selected after a petitioning process to determine citizen interest. A board of trustees established in the area to be served by the college would select the site.

L. M. Standley, member of the state commission on higher education and Sikeston board of education president, reported that the commission was "thinking about the 60 per cent of the young men and women who cannot go to college."

He said that "we are here to listen to the views of your group."

Dr. Ben Morton, Jefferson City, secretary of the state board of education said that a Junior College can be tied to an area situation.

"There are now nine four-year colleges in the state, and we hope that they will increase to 14," he said.

W. R. Pierce, superintendent of schools at Charleston, said that the Junior College is uniquely American, and serves functions that other colleges do not.

Fred Morrow, superintendent at Poplar Bluff, discussing the Junior College said that, "a resident student would carry a small fee, tax money would take care of another part, and state aid the balance. The cost per student would total $400."

Lyman Evans of Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau commented, "although higher education is competitive, we will always work together with any junior college program."

No Dramatic Buildup Of U.S. Troops Expected In Viet Nam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although another large increase seems probable, U. S. officials discounted today the likelihood of any dramatic immediate reinforcement of U.S. troops in South Viet Nam to counter the mounting infiltration of North Vietnamese soldiers.

The key to the pace of the buildup, which some say may see an eventual doubling of the present 165,000 U.S. fighting men in South Viet Nam, is the progress made in developing the port, depot and other facilities to receive the additional troops and to support them once they are in the country.

Work on the pivotal Cam Ranh base on the Vietnamese coast is moving ahead on a two-shift-a-day footing, but even at that tempo engineer officials say it will be quite a while before this and other new ports are in high gear.

Priority construction also is being pushed on new airfields to handle heavier Air Force operations in prospect.

The ultimate extent of the reinforcement will depend on the actions of the enemy. Experience — especially the experience of this past year — has shown that manpower sights have had to be lifted again and again.

Some speculation is that U.S. forces in South Viet Nam may increase from the present 165,000 to 250,000 or 300,000 men. Conceivably, the eventual total could zoom even higher.

Not counted in with the present 165,000 are some 50,000 to 60,000 Navy men aboard 7th Fleet vessels in Southeast Asian waters.

Enlistments are up sharply in all the services, and the Army is taking in about 40,000 draftees this month.

Draft calls are certain to remain about this high. They could go higher if the troop demands growing out of the Viet Nam war become acute.

Manpower plans are based on the need to beef up the regular forces worldwide by 340,000 men to a total just below three million, and by the need to replace casualties, the sick, and men whose enlistments and tours of active duty expire.

Weapon Case Dismissed By Magistrate

NEW MADRID -- Another light docket was experienced by magistrate court this week.

Three persons were charged with felonies:

A. M. Kimes, charged with exhibiting a dangerous and deadly weapon, had his case dismissed upon payment of court costs of $20;

John Brower and Buster King waived preliminary hearings and were remanded to circuit court with bonds set at $500 each. Brower was charged with running a bawdy house and King with carrying a concealed weapon.

Homer David Burnham paid $110 this week for operating a motor vehicle without Missouri Public Service Commission Authority.

Ruben Johnson and Eddie Treadwell were fined $25 each for careless and imprudent driving. Joe Harold Anders paid $15 for the same offense.

Woman Who Helps Her Husband Get Ahead Not Too Beautiful, Sexy, Smart

NEW YORK (AP) — If you want to help your husband get ahead, you'd better not be too sexy, too beautiful or too smart. If you succeed, though, you could end up with an ulcer.

That is the word from Mrs. J. Robert Fluor of Pasadena, Calif., wife of a business executive and beauteous mother of two sons, aged 18 and 20. She's so attractive you would think she did not take her own advice.

Her husband of 21 years is chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers. He also is president of Fluor Co. Ltd. of Los Angeles, a firm with 6,000 employes that does a $100-million to $200-million a year business building oil, chemical and petrochemical plants around the world.

"We have the perfect husband-wife relationship," said Fluor. "I get the work, and she gets the ulcer."

Less than three months after he was elected last year to a one-year term as chairman of the NAM, Mrs. Fluor came down with an ulcer.

"I take things quite seriously," she said. "But that ulcer — it wasn't all NAM. It was part Fluor."

She is quite serious about her role as a corporate wife.

"You should be a good listener and a good conversationalist," she said in an interview. "That's one of the biggest things for a good wife."

At all odds, you must not attract too much attention or any criticism.

"Any criticism of the boss's wife would be transferred to his company," she said.

"I like to be able to be myself, but I must dress and act in keeping with my husband's position and not overdo."

As for her husband's business, Mrs. Fluor said she knew little about it.

"He's a firm believer in leaving business at the office," she said. "When someone asks me why the stock went up or down, I don't know and I ask. But he always says he doesn't know, either.

"I give him an opinion on personnel problems, whether he asks or not."

Firemen Admit Setting Blazes

MEMPHIS, Tenn. AP -- Two volunteer firemen who, investigators said, admitted setting two house fires because they like to fight them, have pleaded guilty to arson charges.

Jimmy Franklin Owens, 23, and Willie L. Berryhill, 22, were sentenced Wednesday to three-year terms at the county penal farm.

The fires were set March 31, 1964. Investigators said that in each instance Owens and Berryhill returned to the scene and fought the blaze. They were members of the Chickasaw Village Fire Department.

Three U.S. Jet Fighters Downed By Red Gunners

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Communist gunners downed three U.S. jet fighters, includine one from the newly arrived atomic-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, during raids on North and South Viet Nam in the past 24 hours, U. S. spokesmen reported today.

Another fighter from the Enterprise crashed into the sea while trying to land on the 85,000-ton carrier, the world's largest. The accident occurred on the Enterprise's first day of combat operations in the South China Sea.

The four airmen from the Enterprise were rescued. The pilots of the two other planes were missing and presumed killed.

The losses pushed the number of American planes downed in operations in Viet Nam beyond 150.

One of the planes hit was an Air Force F105 during an attack on a bridge 50 miles north of Hanoi Wednesday night. Pilots reported they saw four surface-to-air missiles in flight in the area but said none scored hits.

Fender Of Parked Car Damaged

Charles Bryant, Jr., 25, 220 Missouri St., reported to police at 10:15 p.m. that his parked automobile on East Malone in front of the Sikeston Motor Company, was struck last night. The left rear fender was damaged.

Police have not found the person who hit the car.

TREATMENT OF ALCOHOLISM

A government crusade against one of the leading social ills of the day appears to be shaping up in Washington. The target is alcoholism. If present planning comes to fruition, it will be the first time since Prohibition that the scourge of excessive drinking has been subjected to a broad-scale federal attack.

According to medical authorities, only the great killer diseases (cancer and heart trouble) and mental illness rank ahead of alcoholism as a public health problem in terms of the adverse effects on individual, family and community. The causes of alcoholism have remained a mystery to medical science, and the affliction itself has been resistant to efforts so far made to overcome it.

There are an estimated five million alcoholics in the United States, and their drinking habits are said to affect directly the well-being of 20 million close relatives. Some persons place the totals even higher, up to 10 million alcoholics including "problem drinkers" who are well on their way to becoming addicts. The toll taken by alcoholism in ill health, loss of earning capacity, family breakdown, child neglect, etc., is incalculable. Alcoholism is believed to be the cause of more than 10,000 deaths a year. The economic loss -- from job absenteeism, care and treatment of alcoholics, and support of their families -- has been estimated at $2 billion.

Thirteen years of national prohibition (1920-33) proved that the evils of excessive drinking could not be conquered by attempting to impose total abstinence by statute. The approach today is quite different. It is based on the modern concept of the alcoholic as a sick person who is unable to control his drinking. Plans for attacking the problem resemble those of government campaigns launched against other enemies of public health; they include provision for more research, more treatment facilities, more specialist training, and more public education to provide a base of support for the whole endeavor.

The buildup of government action against alcoholism is taking place primarily in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, especially in H.E.W.'s National Institute of Mental Health. A new N.I.M.H. Section on Alcoholism and Drug Addiction, established in March 1964, is scheduled to be expanded next year to a full-fledged center on the addictive diseases. The institute's expenditures on the alcoholism problem have risen from $1.4 million in 1961 to an estimated $4.5 million in the current fiscal year.

H.E.W. officials have been pushing for intensive action on alcoholism since former Secretary Anthony J. Celebrezze called a national conference on the question in mid-1963. A number of subsequent conferences on particular phases of the problem -- vocational rehabilitation of the alcoholic and court handling of chronic inebriates, for example -- have been government-sponsored or supported. A Secretary's Committee on Alcoholism, established in early 1964, serves as coordinator and promoter of activities in this field.

The administration may ask Congress next year to authorize a program on alcoholism that will stimulate action in the states as well as pump new money into existing federal programs. Much depends on the recommendations to be made by the Cooperative Commission on the Study of Alcoholism. The commission, based at Stanford University in California, is nearing completion of a comprehensive, government-financed study of the incidence of alcoholism and the quantity and quality of current federal, state and local efforts to overcome the evil.

The House Commerce Committee opened hearings in late September on bills to establish a federal commission on alcoholism and authorize grants to the states for research, preventive education, and treatment programs. The hearings will be resumed after Congress returns to Washington in January.

FACTS

"Now the argument is made from time to time that you have to have compulsory unionism. This is a lot of malarkey. . . There are in agriculture, and on the political fringes of agriculture, people who promote the idea that farmers ought to be forced to join one of the farm organizations in order to farm. It's called 'licensing.'. . .Now any organization with compulsory membership is more likely to be interested in serving the selfish purposes of those in control than in serving members."

TV AUDIENCE DECLINE

An analysis of the national television audience done by the A. C. Nielsen Co. for Broadcasting magazine, which shows a substantial decline in the number of households watching Tv this Fall compared to a year ago, has created a great deal of consternation in the broadcasting industry--and produced multiple explanations and revelations. (Strangely enough, the revelations seem to have created absolutely no stir on Madison Avenue which must be immune to the juggling of broadcast audiences in boxcar figures.)

Nielsen told Broadcasting, which so reported, that the number of households "watching television in the average nighttime minute during the week ended last Sept. 26 dipped to 30,-666,000 down from 32,033,400 in the week ended Oct. 11, 1964, the second week of the 1964-65 season. The 1965 average was a drop of 1,367,400 from the 1964 figure." (Although the networks rushed forward explanations of this, Madison Ave. was less than unconcerned. Imagine the gloomy reports of the declining newspaper business if the total circulation of daily newspapers had dropped that much in one year!) The figures represented "households"-- to obtain the number of alleged viewers, or in this instance non-viewers, multiply by 2.2.

The decline represented slightly more than 4%. But Tv executives explained the figure should be around 2% (or 675,000 households multiplied by 2.2 viewers) because: And, at this point, anyone who is interested is treated to one of the greatest examples of figure juggling in the history of advertising.

It seems that up until March 1964 any Tv set was considered as a household. It was realized that 20 to 25% of U.S. homes had two or more sets, so at that time the measurement was changed to consider a home with two Tv sets as only one Tv home.

One does not have to be a mathematician to question all those audience claims of prior years nor to wonder whether comparative claims of networks have any validity right now.

"Hitler," replied the boy. "Come, come, no fooling. What's your name?"

A VITAL KEY

Farm chemicals are a key to prosperity. That, in substance, is the authoriative opinion of Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation. He offered it in an address to the 30th Annual Meeting of the National Agricultural Chemicals Association. To quote him exactly: "The average consumer probably does not realize that use of Agricultural chemicals is one of the key factors in the technological revolution in farming that has resulted in an abundance of high quality, nutritious food, at bargain prices. The . . . other factors that have contributed to our highly efficient system of farming are the application of power and genetic improvement.

" . . . farm production efficiency enables an hour's work to buy 60 per cent more farm food than in 1947-49 . . . increased efficiency over the years has freed manpower to develop and operate our mass production industrial and manufacturing system."

Mr. Shuman also said this: " . . . sensational charges that tend to discredit all uses of agricultural chemicals in agriculture serve no real purpose other than to substitute mass hysteria for calm and thoughtful study and appraisal. Agriculture recognizes the need for regulation in the use of agricultural chemicals -- and there is ample supervision now vested in several agencies of government-- but excess regulation would not improve enforcement of safety precautions. It is something akin to asking for greater regulation of poisons in order to keep children from opening medicine cabinets."

Food will inevitably become an increasingly important problem as population soars and more and more farm land must be used for nonfarm purposes. The pesticides, and the other proved agricultural chemicals, will be an essential element in the solution.

" . . . all available research indicates", said Mr. Shuman, "that the use of agricultural chemicals according to directions does not constitute a health hazard."

MISSING AMERICANISM

Many feel that to be well-informed requires silence. These faint-hearts could learn a lesson from Charles H. Brower, chairman of the executive committee of one of the nation's largest advertising agencies, who has almost achieved immortality because he spoke, and well, his love for his country in a now famous speech entitled THE RETURN OF THE SQUARE. He chided all Americans, and patriots in particular, for their desire for "uninvolvement".

These are but a few of his wonderful ideas: Once we were the greatest exporter of ideas in the world. We exported the wonderful idea of individual dignity, liberty, and initiative. One of the finest words in our language was "square". You gave a man a square deal if you were honest. You gave him a square meal if he was hungry. You stood foursquare for the right as you saw it and square against everything else. When you got out of debt, you were square with the world. And that was when you could look your fellowman square in the eye.

Then from the underworld a "square" took on a new meaning. From the prisons it was flashed across the country on the marijuana circuit. A square is a man who never learned about getting away with wrongdoing. A fellow who laughs with his belly instead of his upper lip.

You may be surprised to learn Mr. Brower did not get lambasted for chiding Americans. Instead, his speech was reproduced, rerun, reprinted, and re-requested. Mr. Brower is a hero. Dormant patriots may be encouraged to also try for fame. HLH

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK - If you could live in any period of the world's history, which would you choose - past, present, or future?

The romantic soul aches for the imagined glamor of bygone times he never knew.

If he is a henpecked husband, he may yearn for the caveman days, when each fellow was master of his niche in the cliff -- and women received equal rights by being belted over the head with a club.

Or he may pine for the chivalrous glories of knighthood. He overlooks the fact that riding off to battle in a suit of clanking armor must have been largely just a noisy adventure in claustrophobia.

He wants to zoom through space, build a desert villa on the moon, and explore Mars in search of red-eyed, little green people - like creatures with antennas on their noggins. He doesn't have any real idea what life will be like in the 21st or 22nd centuries. But he is sure it would be wild, and wierd and wonderful.

So much for the backward lookers and the forward seekers. That leaves us with the realists. They are the ones who aren't hungry for a fabled past or thirsty for a fabulous future.

They walk the tightrope of the present-between a dream and a dream. They prefer to banquet on the bread and wine of now, satisfied with the menu as it changes in the course of their lifetime.

What is the best time to live? When you get right down to it, what's the matter with right now?

A man who has achieved the full maturity of middle age in this most murderous of centuries is a privileged adventurer indeed.

He has survived two world wars and one of the worst depressions our country ever knew.

He has seen the horse and buggy give way to the auto, the street car replaced by the bus, the railroad succeeded by the jet plane, artillery outmoded by the atomic bomb.

From birth the middle -aged man today has been surrounded by change.

He has seen more change than any other individual his age in history. But it is possible for a man to get a bellyful of change. Change isn't always for the better.

That's the reason that now, for many a thoughtful man, is the best of all times in which to live. He'd rather pause and enjoy today's goodies -- before tomorrow comes along and improves him to death.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- In Paris this fall I had occasion to talk to many Frenchmen about Charles De Gaulle, now running for re-election; also about relations between those two ancient allies, France and the United States.

De Gaulle, I was assured, is not anti-American. He is simply pro - French. He has given France its most unparalleled period of prosperity, a period in which French factory workers, who used to eye with envy the cars owned by American factory workers, now have their own. The cars are a little smaller than American autos, but they have them.

Furthermore, L'Humanite, the Communist newspaper, carries a more detailed description than any Paris newspaper of new cars, their virtues and defects. Aware that French Communists own their own cars, L'Humanite strives for circulation.

De Gaulle's friends say that he has achieved prosperity partly by ending civil war in Algeria, partly by operating a socialist state.

In 1945 De Gaulle nationalized the bigger French insurance companies, something which would have brought cries of "Communism" in the United States. He also nationalized the major bank. In both respects he has gone further than the British Labor Party.

De Gaulle also follows the same American system of subsidizing farmers, which some people call socialism. The annaul subsidy to French farmers is $700,000,000, as against around $4 billion of farm subsidies in the United States.

AN ELEPHANT'S MEMORY

And this is one reason for friction between the United States and De Gaulle. He objects vigorously to the importation of American farm products by common market nations. He wants other common market nations to reserve the European market for higher-priced, subsidized French and German wheat. After all, 18 per cent of the French population is on the farm, as compared with only 8 per cent in the United States. And French farmers vote. American farmers don't vote--in France.

Le Grand Charley (Big Charley), as the Parisien taxi-drivers call him, has a memory like an elephant's. He remembers a lot of things that happened during the war when he was in exile in London, head of the Free French.

He remembers especially that slurring speech of Secretary of State Cordell Hull regarding the "so-called" Free French, and the fact that the man who wrote the speech was Sam Reber, intimate friend of Charles Bohlen, now U.S. ambassador in Paris. This has not helped relations with the United States.

De Gaulle also remembers how General Eisenhower in 1944 didn't take the trouble to notify him that the United States was going to cross the channel and land troops in Normandy until the night before the landing. De Gaulle was in London. The invasion of his country was the biggest military event of the war. Yet only the night before did Eisenhower remark to Gen. Omar Bradley that he'd better drop around and tell De Gaulle they were going to retake France.

RESURRECTING LAVAL

Le Grand Charley also remembers Roosevelt's attempt to install Nazi - collaborator Pierre Laval as provisional president of France. De Gaulle didn't know about this until after the war when he read Anthony Eden's memoirs and found out that Eden had finally persuaded FDR that Laval was too hated in France. Later Laval was shot as a traitor.

There is a French saying that the King of France should forget the insults of the Duke D'-Orleans. But the old man who runs France today doesn't forget.

No one in the French government has any doubt as to who is running France. It is the old man. De Gaulle personally passes on the question of American investments in France. If the investment would put control of more than 20 per cent of a segment of French industry in foreign hands, he says no. But he ok'd 60 per cent of the American investments last year.

At the age of 77 he is brilliant, anything but senile. He writes many letters of instructions to ambassadors himself, and even though Foreign Minister Couve De Murville may sign the letters, the ambassadors can recognize De Gaulle's instructions by their clarity.

He figures that the United States would never really enter the common market, since, among other things, the market provides that a doctor in one country can practice in another country without getting a license; and that any child beyond the fifth grade can interchange schools between countries. The American Medical Association, De Gaulle knows, would never accept the first, nor would southern states accept black French students.

This is the man who is certain to be reelected president of France and whom President Johnson will have to work with, and the United States will have to live with, whether we like it or not.

"But you Americans should remember," remarked one French Gaullist who knows and likes America, "that De Gaulle will not live forever, and France and the United States will go on for a long time."

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor Seeking High - Up Post in New $25 Billion LBJ Dept. Set to Create More Jobs Than Steel, Auto Industries.

Washington, D. C: -- Meanwhile, back here on earth, the government's newest and still headless department is inching along towards the expenditure of $25 billion in the coming five years.

This, and not the name-game played with contenders for the new secretaryship of the Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (H. U. D.), is the most staggering story in town. Except, of course, for war and peace.

It is staggering because the new law, which created the Dept., also will create more man-years of employment than any project since and including the Sphinx and Cheops Pyramid.

Whole new cities will be built. The entire core of rotting cities will be demolished. Sprawling new housing developments will reach from one community enclave to another, touching and thus stretching continuous megalopolises for hundreds of miles.

To demolish, to build, to cart for surface construction and for subterranean digging will require the fantastic figure of 2.6 million man - years of well-paying work in the next half decade. And that's just the beginning.

Few have bothered to work out the vast employment implications, except those in the AFL - CIO Building and Construction Trades Dept. headquarters under its president, Neal Haggerty.

In all, he reckons, one million new and probably permament jobs will be created in the construction field and allied areas. This matches the development of the railroad or steel or auto industries. The new law will, in fact, add more new permanent jobs eventually than there will be in the railroad and steel businesses combined.

The $25 billion dollars is a lot of cash, even in this holiday-ing capital. Huges tracts of land will have to be bought, vast quantities of materials will be needed -- and the letting of contracts and hiring of manpower will make any H.U.D. chief one of the most powerful men in the nation. Not only will his crown lie uneasily, but he will be on the hottest seat in the land.

The nation's political power is the cities. There, too, is labor's strength. And the restless Negro communities. There will be many strains as the huge cranes rumble into position to rip apart the rot or bring up the metal for the new. To whom will the jobs go?

Inherent are enormous conflicts. Therefore, President Johnson has moved slowly in the naming of the newest cabinet member. He began in midsummer when he talked aboard a Washington riverboat with the urbane and quick-humored Whitney Young, executive director of the Urban League.

Mr. Johnson, in effect, reportedly said that Mr. Young could have the new departmental post. The League's leader allegedly replied the President certainly could do better. It was left that way.

But vital as the new Cabinet member will be, the new department's second administrative officer would be of equal moment and weight.

The department's under - secretary will be the chief administrative officer. He would be the trouble - shooter, the pacifier, the professional protagonist and antagonist, depending on the belligerents.

And that undersecretaryship is the post into which American labor wants to place one of its own leaders. Most talked of by the insiders is the modest, laconic, almost anonymous Joe Keenan, AFL-CIO vice president and secretary of the powerful International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

He is a trouble-shooter par excellence. He was the first civilian to be rushed into postwar Germany. He got the anti-Nazi labor leaders out of concentration camps. He resuscitated them.

They built a movement which drove back the Soviet's apparatus. It was this operation which many believe saved West Berlin from take-over by Communist labor units.

Keenan's colleagues feel there are few men who could keep the vast construction behemoth running smoothly.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Eugene Ozment

Mary Lou Lincoln Is Wed To Lindsey E. Ozment

MORLEY -- The First Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Mary Lou Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Lincoln, route one, Oran, to Lindsey Eugene Ozment of Sikeston Saturday at 7 p.m.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Genevieve Ozment of Sikeston and the late Don Ozment.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white lace. The bodice was highlighted with pearls and sequins and featured long tapered sleeves that came to points over the hands. Her finger-tip veil was secured by a rhinestone crown. She carried a bouquet of two orchids and lilies of the valley atop a white Bible.

The flower girl wore a blue brocaded dress that was styled with long sleeves. Her matching veil was secured with a bow. She carried a basket of white carnations.

Mrs. Ozment, the groom's mother, was attired in a magenta suit and hat and completed her ensemble with black accessories. She wore a peppermint carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church basement. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered cake. Punch, nuts and mints were also served to the guests. Helen Jackson, Loretta Boley, Ruth Ann Milan and Judy Cook assisted in serving at the reception. Wanda Lincoln of Oran, the bride's sister, was in charge of the guest register. She wore a powder blue wool dress and a white carnation corsage.

The couple left for a short wedding trip to an undisclosed destination. For travel, Mrs. Ozment chose a yellow wool sheath with black accessories.

Is Director Of Little Theatre Production

The very best of plays can be only as good as its director. With this in mind, Sikeston Little Theatre is fortunate to have "Brownie" Urban in charge of this season's premier production, "A Thousand Clowns."

Wife of Dr. Dewey Urban, "Brownie" has a long list of theatrical accomplishments to her credit. She attended the Morse School of Expression in St. Louis and worked with Faye McAdams of the St. Louis Muny Opera. Further experience was gained through work in "starlight" summer theatres, membership in the Brighton Players in Illinois and in the Art Guild and Theatre Group in Alexandria, La.

She also has had a hand in the production of vaudeville shows for charity balls, pageant plays for various churches, one act plays for benefits and numerous children's plays. Aside from the production aspect of the theatre, Mrs. Urban has appeared in several plays -- "Midsummer Night's Dream" "The Man in the Green Shirt," and "Cherie."

Mrs. Urban is enthusiastic about the progress of this production and promises an evening of excellent entertainment for the membership of Little Theatre.

This is a comedy by Herb Gardner and was a top Broadway hit. The play begins at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at Sikeston Junior High School. Those who have not bought memberships for this season's three productions may do so by calling Mrs. A. B. Smith. This year's bill of fare includes "A Thousand Clowns", "The Miracle Worker", and "The King and I."

Letters To Santa

Dear Santa Claus,
I would like for you to bring me a rocky-horse and some wind-up toys for Christmas. I have been a good little boy. Please don't forget all the other little children.
Love,
Mike Holden
Sikeston, Mo. 63801
P.S. I will leave you some cookies and milk on the kitchen table.

Dear Santa Claus,
I would like to have a real live gold Cocker Spaniel puppy. May I have a 15 inch Raggedy Ann for Christmas.
With my love,
Anne Sikes

Dear Santa,
I am a little boy, seven years old. I have a little brother four, and a little sister who is three. We know you are very busy so we thought we would write one letter for all of us.
First, my little sister would like a "Baby Boo" doll, a little piano, an overnight case and a little stove and refrigerator.
Then my little brother wants a toy deer rifle, a gas station set and an electric race car track.
Don't forget all the other boys and girls and remember my Mother and Daddy.
Thank you,
Kevin, Myron and Carmen Goetz
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Santa;
Please bring me a Johnny Express, a cement mixer, some scoota Skats and a Richochet Rifle.
I'm 5 yrs. old. I've been a fairly good little boy. I don't expect all of these toys, just the ones you think best.
I hope you have a nice Christmas.
Timmy Owens
Vanduser, Mo.

Dear Santa
For Christmas will you please bring me a hi-lift loader, a Johnny "7" O.M.A. gun, a book satchel, a tool set and a super crane. Thank you.
Joey Crader
Oran, Mo.

Dear Santa:
Please bring me a "Baby First Step" doll, a big Penny Brite case, and some doll dishes.
Thank you very much

The play will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Junior High School auditorium.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: The question is simply this: "To filch or not to filch." I don't mean from the supermarket. I mean from the wallet of a stingy husband.

For 20 years I lived like a pauper. I had to beg my husband for every extra dime. It was always, "Wait till next week" or, "I'm a little short right now--can't spare it."

One day I helped myself to $2 out of his billfold and 75¢ from his pocket. He never missed it. I've been at this routine for three years now and it's amazing how quickly the dimes, quarters and dollars have mounted in my private bank account.

For a God-fearing woman who was raised in a decent home I'm curiously immune to the pangs of conscience. I do not consider it stealing. If you wish to be analytical, you might describe this behavior as "subconscious revenge."

If this is true, Ann, revenge is sweet. My bank account is growing along with my confidence and my personal dignity. The greatest satisfaction stems from the knowledge that my husband, with all his penny-pinching, hasn't saved a cent and I have a healthy boodle.

Dear Light: Wrong. And all your fancy, high-falutin' rationalization doesn't make it right.

Of course it's rotten for a wife to have to beg for spending money and I don't blame you for being bitter. A wife is entitled to part of what her husband makes. And this is no hand-out, it's her due -- for being a homemaker and a partner.

Your healthy savings account is proof that the satisfaction you get from filching is more important than the money. If you really needed spending money you'd be spending it, not saving it.

Dear Ann Landers: We have been married less than a year. I am 18 and Gerald is 19. I say "married" but it sure hasn't been much of a marriage so far. We have not had two nights in a row together. Either he wants to go shoot pool, play cards, bowl, or go to a movie, or the stock car races or a ball game. I am never included in these nights out. They are strictly for the boys and all except Gerald are single.

When we are at home for an evening, either four or five of his buddies drop in or he goes to the phone and calls somebody. When I tell him I would like a night with just him he says, "I work hard all day driving a truck. At night I want to have some fun."

When we were going together I seemed to be plenty of fun for him. What happened? Help me, please.--LIKE IGNORED

You need the help of a clergyman or a marriage counselor. Don't look in the phone book and make a blind selection. Call the Y.M.C.A. or the Family Service Association and ask for guidance. Now!

Confidential to Must Say It To Save Face: Sorry, I don't agree. Sometimes the best way to save face is to keep the lower part of it shut.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits--the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Lander's booklet, "Teen-age Sex--Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bulldogs Meet Bearcats In Second Game Of Year

Sikeston's unseeded Bulldogs, who were picked in the preseason as a mediocre ball club, shot their way past the Cape Central Tigers, 62 to 48, for their first win Tuesday night in the Southeast Missouri Basketball Conference tournament at Dexter.

In the Bulldog's opening game Mike Couch, senior - forward, paced Sikeston's offense with 21 points. McKinley Lambert, senior - forward, who had an off-year last season, drilled 15 points for the Bulldogs.

Tomorrow night Sikeston meets second - seeded Dexter in the semi-finals of the winners bracket. The winner of that game will face the winner of the Kennett - Poplar Bluff game to be played tonight.

Dawson said: "We have similar styles. They have a larger team and use a full - court press. I expect that our speed will, if anything does, carry us through."

Poplar Bluff also has their work cut out for them tomorrow night. The Mules are lacking in height and experience.

Why is the ocean salty? The salts found in the ocean are one result of more than two billion years of disintegration of the igneous rocks of the earth's crust. The soluble materials remain in the ocean: the insoluble precipitates have formed sedimentary rocks and ocean sediments. Suspended material and dissolved salts, extracted from the rocks of the continents, are still carried to the sea by rivers.

From now on saving money is no problem. Every payday, your employer sets aside a little from your check and puts it toward the purchase of a U. S. Savings Bond. Your savings come automatically. There's no temptation. No backsliding.

You can get your savings when you need them. But, of course, they'll be worth 33⅓% more if you wait until your Bonds reach maturity.

Being a Payroll Saver entitles you to feel pretty proud of yourself, too. Because your savings help protect your country's future as they help provide for your own.

Why not talk to your employer and get started saving regularly this payday? You'll be amazed at your new perseverance.

Keep freedom in your future with

Garrett And Twilley Dominate

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Garrett and Howard Twilley, all-time major college ground gainer and pass receiver, are displayed prominently on the 1965 Associated Press All-America football team.

So are:

—The man who outdid Red Grange, Illinois fullback Jim Grabowski.

—A 160-pound, 23rd man: Princeton's Charley Gogolak, named to honor his unique, record-breaking talent and not as a precedent for future teams. The Hungarian - born, soccer-style booter place-kicked 81 points on 33-of-33 conversions and 16 field goals.

Sportswriters and broadcasters on the eight regional boards made the recommendations upon which the selections were based, including all games through Nov. 27.

The platoon-oriented squad lists Notre Dame's Nick Rassas, Johnny Roland of Missouri and George Webster of Michigan State as the defensive backs.

Defensively, the linebackers are Oklahoma's Carl McAdams, Tennessee's Frank Emanuel and Dwight Kelley of Ohio State. Brown and Ed Weisacosky of Miami are the ends, Nebraska's Walt Barnes and Arkansas' Lloyd Phillips the tackles and George Patton of Georgia the middle guard.

Garrett of Southern California, Heisman Trophy winner as Player of the Year, set a national collegiate three-year rushing mark of 3,168 yards, topping the old standard of 3,166 held by Ollie Matson.

Besides carrying the ball for 1,440 yards and 15 touchdowns, Garrett hauled in nine passes for 94 yards and a score, completed two of the four aerials he attempted for touchdowns and returned kicks 340 yards.

Heisman runner-up Twilley, at 5-feet-10, is the first lineman to win the NCAA scoring crown with 127 points. He snared 134 passes for 1,779 yards and 16 touchdowns to better every NCAA game and season record in sight.

BY MURRAY OLDERMAN
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (NEA) "You know," said the Buffalo observer watching Joe Namath fill the screen, "he could be the best quarterback in our league right now."

Namath was masterful as he led the New York Jets to a rout of the Houston Oilers and suddenly made them the hottest team in the American Football League.

His arrival as an accomplished pro points up the importance of the pro draft. Talk all you want to about rookies needing three years to adjust to the complexities of professional football, but the fact remains that with the dilution of talent, many of them are earning their keep immediately.

And don't try to tell Sonny Werblin, the Jets' owner, that the dimpled Hungarian from Beaver Falls, Pa., isn't worth the $400,000 investment.

Every pro scout you meet tells you that after the draft this coming weekend, the college kids will be impossible in their demands, even worse than last year.

If they can produce half as well as the 1965 crop of rookies, they'll be worth it.

In the National Football League, the New York Giants, the Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers were doormats a year ago. None could "establish," as Allie Sherman of the Giants might say, because their running attacks weren't respected.

So they all signed their No. 1 draft picks. For the Giants, Tucker Frederickson looms as the logical successor to Jimmy Brown as all-pro fullback when the Cleveland great quits; that is if he can beat out Ken Willard, who jacked up the 49ers with power running.

Gale Sayers' contributions to the Bears have been just fantastic. They've lost only one game a squeezer to the Baltimore Colts—since he started playing regularly after almost a month of the season had gone by. He's the hottest Chicago halfback since George McAfee.

Other rookies in other jobs have made equal impacts. For example, Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys and Fred Biletnikoff of the Oakland Raiders—a pair of flankers who have won regular jobs.

As part of their pitch for signing college kids, both leagues brag about the number of rookies who have made their squads. And that's why, in the absence of an amicable relationship, their pursuit of college kids is such bitter rivalry. A multimillion dollar television deal isn't worth a cent, as Werblin can tell you, unless you can produce a show worth selling.

MIAA All-Conference Teams Announced

KANSAS CITY AP -- Unanimous choices of coaches to the MIAA 1965 all-conference football team announced Wednesday were Sharron Washington of Maryville State and Mike Richardson of Kirksville State.

It was the second straight year in the select company for Richardson, a defensive back. Cornelius Perry, a Springfield State halfback, made the offensive team for the third year in a row. Washington also is an offensive back.

Richard Rhodes of Kirksville, a tackle, and John Kennedy, a Springfield guard, made both the offensive and defensive teams.

Kirksville, which successfully defended its MIAA championship this season, placed eight men on the first offensive and defensive teams.

Center -- Dick Heinen, Maryville State.

Ends -- Bob Holloman, Cape Girardeau, and Rhodes.

Middle Guard--Kennedy.

Center -- John Tummons, Springfield.

Backs -- Leo Papas and Jim Blankenship, both of Maryville, and J. Jackson and Ron Villars, both of Kirksville.

SECOND TEAM DEFENSE

Middle Guard -- Sam McDowell, Springfield.

Backs -- Dennis Meyr, Dennis Hancock and Jerry Labertew, all of Cape Girardeau; Maurice Minervini, Kirksville; John Huddleston, Springfield, and Willie Weaver, Warrensburg.

matter of fact

There are strong grounds for a belief that Manchuria is the original home of the tiger and that it later extended its range southward. At birth tiger cubs are woolly, indicating a natural protection against the cold and, although tigers are found in the hottest of Indian jungles, they dislike heat and their pads will blister when they are forced to cross open ground in hot weather.

Most Cases Continued In Dunklin

KENNETT -- Most cases included in the proceedings of Dunklin county Circuit Court Monday, over which Judge Arthur U. Goodman, Jr., presided and Prosecuting Attorney Charles H. Baker represented the State, were continued.

Francis Paul Prater, 53, of Campbell, charged with driving while intoxicated, received a six-month jail sentence and was paroled on condition of good behavior and payment of costs by May 20, 1966. Joseph Nicholas Arends, 21, of Malden, charged with driving while intoxicated, had his case dismissed upon payment of costs.

The bond of Marvin Isaac Bond, 48, of Risco was forfeited for failure to appear for trial on charges of driving while intoxicated. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Changes of venue to Pemiscot county were awarded to three defendants upon their application: Tony Henfling, 18, of Kennett, charged with statutory rape; Wayne Williams, 30, of Wardell, charged with passing a no funds check; and William Carey, 39, of Wichita, Kan., on two charges -- driving while intoxicated and possession of a deadly weapon while intoxicated.

The case of Hubert Brown, 26, of Kennett, charged with operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent was continued to Dec. 27. Continued to the February term of court was the case of Archie Holt, 30, of Senath, charged with disposing of mortgaged property.

Also continued to the February term of court were the cases of Clarence Miller, Sr., of Arbyrd, charged with exhibiting a deadly weapon and Clarence Miller, Jr., 23, of Arbyrd, charged with felonious assault.

Two cases, originally set for trial on Friday, were continued to the February term: Donald Miller, 17, of Arbyrd, charged with felonious assault and Billy Wayne Brooks, 23, of Clarkton, charged with robbery.

Two other cases, set for Tuesday, were continued to the February term: Billy Joe Goodrich, 33, of Arbyrd, charged with exhibiting a deadly weapon and Kloyce C. Howard, 41, of Malden, charged with passing a no funds check.

In the case of Carthel Ardel Overman, 41, of Malden, charged with felonious assault, Judge William L. Ragland, Judge of the 34th Judicial Circuit, was designated as special judge upon the defendant's application for disqualification of Arthur U. Goodman, Jr., regular judge.

The Plentiful Foods Story

A professional baseball team, a cow and a calf, and a hot dog 35 feet long have something in common. They all have been used to carry a message of plenty to U. S. consumers. The "plenty" in these instances were plentiful supplies of eggs, milk and dairy products, bread and other grains.

What goes into a promotion? Every meaningful attention-getter that ingenuity can devise. A phase of the egg promotion, for example, featured the St. Louis Cardinals at their Florida training camp feasting on five dozen eggs cooked in a gigantic frypan. The occasion gave the team physician an opportunity to recommen eggs to the players because of their high-protein content, and one player remarked that his family of six bought eggs by the crate. The episodes were filmed and the films distributed nationwide.

The cow and calf visited Cleveland schools to publicize "June is Dairy Month." and perhaps to show children where milk actually comes from.

The 35-foot long hot dog was concocted in Chicago to emphasize that "August is Sandwich Month." It was served to the King Family on their nationwide TV show.

Spearheading such promotions and other plentiful foods activity is the Plentiful Foods Program of the U. S Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service.

As a regular monthly service, the Department compiles a list of Plentiful Foods----employing its extensive fact-finding services to determine what foods will be plentiful and in need of additional merchandising attention. The list then goes to C & MS food distribution area officers where it may be modified to reflect regional conditions. The list, plus background information and merchandising suggestions, is widely distributed to the food trade well ahead of the month to which it applies in order to enlist cooperation in stimulating greater sales and consumption of the plentiful foods.

When foods face particularly difficult marketing problems, special promotions (like those for eggs, dairy products, and grain products) are undertaken at the request of the industry and in cooperation with the industry's own promotional efforts.

Plentiful Foods Program activities are designed to help insure a smooth orderly flow of foods through regular marketing channels--thus absorbingp productions excesses increasing farm income, and enabling the food trades to operate more efficiently and profitably. As this is accomplished, the consumer can continue to expect generous supplies of high quality foods.

Basically, this activity boils down to one fact--handling food marketing problems intelligently for the benefit of producers, food trades, and consumers. Extremely low prices for any foodstuff over an extended period of time would drive producers out of business and limit the great variety of food now available for consumers to enjoy.

GM Will Loosen Grip On Buses

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Motors Corp. has agreed to loosen its control in the manufacture and sale of buses.

The Justice Department says the company now handles 85 per cent of the nation's intercity and transit buses.

The company-government agreement reached Tuesday ended an antitrust hassle which began in mid-1956 when the government accused GM of conspiring with four bus operating companies to monopolize the bus market.

The case had been kept from trial for 9½ years because of legal maneuvers. It was scheduled to open later this month.

The settlement was filed in U. S. District Court in Detroit, but announced in Washington by Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach.

Among the provisions:

GM will allow other manufacturers to use all of its current bus patents without royalty payments.

On patents developed in the next five years, GM will charge no royalties during the first five years of their use.

All bus patents developed by GM in the next 10 years will be made available to competitors.

The agreement also gives the federal government authority to seek divestiture of some GM bus properties under certain conditions.

The antitrust suit had charged General Motors with conspiring with the Hertz Corp. of New York; Greyhound Corp. and National City Lines Inc., both of Chicago; and Public Service Coordinated Transport Co. of Newark, N. J.

Youth Crime-Suggested Treatments

It is time to start treating young outlaws as criminlas instead of as juvenile pranksters that is the idea of some key law-enforcement officials.

Reason: Laws intended to protect youngsters actually are sheltering hardened criminals.

Are too many young criminals being treated as children?

This question is being discussed widely among law-enforcement officials as the number of crimes committed by youths continues to soar in the U. S.

What to do about the problem?

Some suggestions were made at a convention in Chicago of the Federal Bar Association, an organization of lawyers who are present or past employes of the Federal Government. Its 12,000 members include U. S. district attorneys.

One suggestion, made by Inspector H. Lynn Edwards, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was this:

"First of all, I think we must make a clear-cut distinction between "juvenile delinquency' and 'youthful ciminality.' ...If we make this distinction, I am sure we will be able to approach the problem more realistically and demand that youthful criminals be treated more like adult criminals."

Such offenses as rape, robbery and assault, the FBI officer said "certainly, when committed by youths 16 years and older, deserve to be evaluated much the same way as we evaluate adult crime."

"Another suggestion," Inspector Edwards added, "is to begin fingerprinting youthful criminals and have their fingerprints . . . available to law enforcement when these youths commit further crimes.

"As it is now, with the cloak of secrecy wrapped around so many of these youthful criminals by the protection of the juvenile philosophy, the police never know for certain just how serious or lengthy a youth's criminal record might be.

"Another closely related suggestion," Inspector Edwards continues, "is to publicize the names of youths who commit serious crimes . . . I believe such publicity, in most instances, acts as a strong deterrent to future crimes by those whose names are published."

Juvenile-court procedures also were criticized by John E. Winters, deputy chief of police in Washington, D. C. He told the Bar Association meeting.

"Too many young thugs and hooldlums are being processed as children simply because they have not reached some magic age that would arbitrarily make them responsible for the consequences of their acts."

To deal with such youngsters, Deputy Chief Winters suggested:

"Remove from juvenile-court jurisdiction those older, sophisticated individuals who, by their records and actions, have become menaces to the community and treat them for what they are.

"For those individuals who are deemed to be beyond the purposes and facilities of juvenile court . . . establish a youth court.

"This court would function in the gray area of life between 16 and 21 years of age. It would operate as a criminal court . . ."

"Delinquency has increased 97 per cent in the District of Columbia during the past seven years. Reported crime has increased for 38 consecutive months.

"About one third of the most frequently committed serious crimes in the District of Columbia can be attributed to juveniles. Approximately 65 per cent of the juveniles arrested during the past fiscal year were repeaters.

"Even more significant were the records of 16 and 17-year-old juveniles accused of felonies. These are waivable cases (that can be shifted to regular criminal courts), and 76 per cent of these juveniles were treated as children.

"I challenge the wisdom of categorizing and treating confirmed delinquents in the upper age brackets as children. It is difficult to reconcile a well-established pattern of law violations or the commission of vicious and brutal crimes by older juveniles with the general understanding of the term 'children.'"

Deputy Chief Winters complained that technicalities too often prevent the full story of a youth's crime from being brought out in juvenile courts.

"It is a fact, also," he added, "that the court does not see the older, experienced and sophisticated juveniles as we (police) do. They do not exhibit the arrogance, defiance and contempt for law in the presence of the court's social workers or the court that they do so often in the presence of police.

"This is understandable. They have everything to gain and nothing to lose by standing before the court respectfully and politely, basking in the light of manufactures halos.

"Regardless of the disposition of the case, a juvenile should leave the courtroom with a feeling of respect--not fear. Too many do not, and you may be sure that their feelings and impressions are passed on to their contemporaries."

People Having Checking Accounts Will Understand

NEW YORK (AP) —If you've ever had trouble keeping your checking account balanced, then you can understand how things got out of hand the other day down at the bank.

For 24 hours at the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co. $3 billion worth of checking account deposits went unbalanced.

It came about when the computer that does the bank's accounting developed a headache in its mechanical brain.

The computer, an International Business Machines Model 7074, makes daily tabulations of checking accounts. The bank handles about 700,000 transactions each day.

The machine was out from 11 a.m. Monday to 11 a.m. Tuesday. Four service men worked all Monday night to get it back into action.

According to a prearranged backup plan the work load should have been shifted immediately to equipment in other banks and in brokerage houses. But the equipment there was in use putting out monthly statements.

Eventually, the bank was able to use some standby equipment and got out its bookkeeping five hours late.

Work? Not For Loew

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — As soon as he walked in the door, Frederick Loewe kicked off his shoes and loosened his tie. "I'm not used to wearing these," he explained to a visitor at his palatial desert home.

Loewe had returned from dedication ceremonies at the Palm Springs Hospital, to which he has donated royalties that may amount to a million dollars, plus other gifts of cash. It was a significant but brief interruption of the composer's daily routine, which is devoted to the pursuit of pleasure.

A small man whose energetic manner belies the fact that he suffered a massive heart attack eight years ago, Loewe sat down in his luxurious living room to explain his withdrawal from the musical theater.

"I quit on Dec. 3, 1960, the night that 'Camelot' opened on Broadway," he remarked. "I said I wasn't going to work any more. I was asked if that meant I was retiring. 'No,' I said, 'I'm simply not going to work any more.'"

And he hasn't. The grand piano, on which rested leather-bound scores he wrote for "Brigadoon," "Paint Your Wagon," "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot," remains untouched. Lowe said he hasn't the slightest urge to compose again.

"Why should I?" he asked. "I am having too good a time as it is. All that is required for my kind of life is a good liver, peace of mind, and good health. Fortunately, I have all three."

With his returns from the shows, especially the epochal "My Fair Lady," he can live like a king — and does. He spends two summer months aboard his yacht on the Riviera. He takes September to tour the major capitals -- Paris, London, Vienna New York.

Then he returns here for nine months amid the desert scenery he loves. He insisted on showing the visitor the 13½ acres he has transformed from a rocky wilderness into a minor Shangri-La. He proceeded at a lope, displaying with enthusiasm his automatic waterfall, a pond of goldfish that come when called, a garden where he grows roses the year around, a grassy plateau overlooking the full sweep of the desert.

Loewe is up with the sun and by 6:30 may be pruning his roses or riding horseback through the chaparral. After lunch he naps, then listens to music, reads or walks about the grounds. He seldom goes out for dinner preferring to entertain friends at his home.

I appreciate very much the copies of the Standard you are sending to the Senior High School. Mrs. Wilkins is using them in her reading and English classes. I have been using them instead of a textbook in one World History class and find a greatly increased response and interest from the students. In fact, I am working out a year's course of study in the class based on the use of the newspaper instead of the traditional textbook. The papers are also useful in other Social Studies classes since all the teachers use current events as a part of the courses.

Sincerely yours,
(Mrs.) Catherine T. Matthews

British Seek To Resolve Troop Snag

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson rushed Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley to Zambia today to resolve a snag in arrangements to send British troops to protect the big Kariba Dam on Zambia's frontier with rebellious Rhodesia.

Wilson gave Bottomley full power to reach agreement with Zambia's President Kenneth Kaunda on the conditions under which the British force would operate.

Kaunda asked Britain to send troops after the power line from the dam to the Zambian copper belt was sabotaged last week. Kaunda said otherwise he would have to seek help elsewhere.

Wilson had planned to go before the House of Commons Tuesday night to announce that troops were on the way. But a last-minute hitch developed, apparently over British insistence that the troops should be used only on the Zambian side of the frontier.

Some reports said Kaunda or some members of his Cabinet insisted that the dam can be protected only if British troops are stationed on the Rhodesian side of the big power installation.

Some sources said Wilson had been reluctant to have British troops stationed near the border because he feared incidents might occur accidentally that would increase the bitterness between the British and Rhodesian governments.

But Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith said Tuesday night he would welcome British troops on the Zambian side of the dam.

Smith indicated, however, that his forces would resist if the British troops crossed the border.

The Kariba Dam forms a 2,000-square-mile lake on the Zambezi River, the frontier between Zambia and Rhodesia. Its hydroelectric plants power the mines of the Zambian copper belt and Rhodesia's booming consumer industries. It is administered jointly by the Rhodesian and Zambian governments, but all the power plant now in operation is on the Rhodesian side.

Hospital Aid Plan Revised

JEFFERSON CITY - The State Hospital Advisory Council announced today it has revised the plan for allocating federal construction aid to Missouri hospitals.

The plan will be submitted to the surgeon general's office for approval.

Missouri has been allocated $5,422,694 in federal funds this year but requests for construction aid total almost $53 million. In addition 14 applicants who got funds in the past two years have asked for another $5 million to complete their projects.

The council decided that in the future the aid granted to any one applicant should be limited to $1 million or 50 per cent of the total estimated cost, whichever is less.

In addition, no extra funds will be provided to complete a previously approved project or expand it.

As in the past, priority will be given to nursing homes operating long term care programs.

PRAYER For Today From The Upper Room

It is an agonizing situation, and who on earth can set me free from the clutches of my own sinful nature? (Romans 7:34, Phillips)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for the sense of freedom and peace that comes to us when we surrender to Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord. We pray that our lives may be a constant witness to Hs saving and keeping power. In His name we ask, praying as He taught us, "Our Father who art in heaven. . . .Amen."

President Johnson Trods Lonely Path

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

In the past few days there has been a burst of talk about various forms of international get-together. Meanwhile, Johnson must make the decisions on stepping up the war in Viet Nam. The picture isn't pretty there.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, just returned from Viet Nam, said, "It will be a long road ahead." He didn't say this country is winning. He just said, "We've stopped losing the war."

This country has about 165,000 troops in Viet Nam. Reports say the number will go to 300,000. Will it? McNamara wouldn't say. That's Johnson's decision.

One of the reasons for this country's bombing of North Viet Nam since February was to reduce the flow of North Vietnamese soldiers into South Viet Nam. But McNamara says now they are tripling the rate of infiltration.

The bombing will be intensified. Johnson must decide how much and were. Critics want Hanoi, the Red capital, bombed. But this might bring Red China into the war. Johnson has to think of that, too.

This week the United Nations General Assembly, without one dissent, voted for a world disarmament conference no later than 1967, with Red China invited. The United States and the Soviet Union voted together on this.

But — while this country said it would be willing to sit down with the Chinese on preliminary negotiations, it refrained from saying it would take part in the conference itself.

And one day later the Soviet Union charged this country is flooding and endangering Western Europe with nuclear weapons.

Tuesday night French President Charles de Gaulle, appealing to his people to re-elect him by telling them they couldn't do without him, took a crack at the United States by calling the Vietnamese war "stupid."

And, while assuring this country and his European partners that France was a staunch ally, he warned France would cooperate with them only as she pleased.

A two-week Inter-American Conference at Rio de Janeiro ended Tuesday on a high note of far-reaching proposals which, if they ever became a reality, would transform Latin America into a new, modern and prosperous world.

For instance: a great society for the hemisphere, a halt to inflation, better living conditions, land reform, and a reduction in trade restrictions. The United States took part in all this.

But this country, criticized for butting into the Dominican Republic's revolt to prevent a Communist take-over, wanted the conference to agree in the future all Latin America would join in such an intervention.

There was a lot of opposition and the United States shoved the idea aside.

Runaway Girl Returns Home

ENCINO, Calif. AP -- Mary Wilson, 16, who ran away to work in a Bangkok, Thailand, orphanage, is home again.

Miss Wilson's arrival at home Wednesday night was almost as quiet as her departure 12 days earlier.

Look Alike-Think Alike
Harry F. Byrd, Sr. And Jr.

Harry Flood Byrd, Jr., appointed to succeed his retired father in the Senate, bears a striking physical resemblance to him. The new Senator's record shows that he also shares his father's political philosophy.

Recent comments back up this view. On November 15, when Virginia's new Democratic Senator took office, he made the following points in response to questions:

On political labels, he rejects being tagged either "conservative" or "liberal," prefers to judge each piece of legislation on its merits.

Questioned about repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act's section 14(b) which permits the States to have "right to work" laws, he said he opposes repeal.

Asked whether or not he expects to follow the political course marked by his father, he replied: "I think Senator Byrd made a wonderful record. Now I will do my best to make my own."

Thus far, the Senator's record includes newspaper editing and publishing, management of the family orchards and a long career in the State legislature. He studied at Virginia Military Institute and the University of Virginia before commencing his newspaper career as an editorial writer on "The Winchester Evening Star," which has been published by his grandfather and by his father. Within a year, young Byrd had become editor and publisher.

With his two younger brothers, Senator Byrd, 50, has been active in the management of H. F. Byrd, Inc., the largest apple-growing establishment in the world.

In accepting his appointment, he admitted, "It is difficult to imagine a more challenging assignment than attempting to follow Senator Byrd." But following him he is. And that includes, says the Senator making the Senate race on his own in 1966.

Political observers believe the new Senator may face a real challenge. The Republican Party enjoys increasing strength in Virginia now, and the Negro vote is a growing force. It is thought unlikely that Mr. Byrd's candidacy will mean automatic victory, as it so regularly did for his father.

Telephone Wire Rolled, Service Stops

UKIAH, Calif. AP -- When telephones suddenly stopped working in areas of Mendocino County during November, many residents were ready to storm the telephone company offices to demand better service.

Sheriff's deputies reported Tuesday they had discovered the cause. Telephone wire had been clipped in remote spots and rolled up on spools to be sold as junk in the San Francisco area.

In all, nine miles of wire was snipped in five separate raids. Arrested and jailed on felony charges of cutting telephone lines were David Phillips, 18, of Carrollton, Ga.; and three Ukiah, Calif., men; Alex Hannah, 27, his brother James, 21, and John Shroyer, 26.

One day in basic training, a two-star general was inspecting the mess halls and went up to one of the basic airmen and asked, "Well, what's the food like here, son?"

"We fight over it all the time, The general looked pleased. "That good, huh?

"Well, not quite, sir," he was told. The loser has to eat it.

State to Profit From Old Coins

BROOKFIELD, Mo. AP -- The old coins which Mary Trimble stashed in a two-gallon bucket in her shed will be auctioned Sunday, but the state probably will get the proceeds.

Born a slave, Mary Trimble died in February when fire burned her home at nearby Linneus. Some acquaintances reckoned her age at 100 or more. She had a reputation for frugality, regularly putting away part of her earnings as a domestic servant.

The two-gallon bucket in the shed yielded 874 coins dating from 1878 to 1946. They have a face value of $405. They haven't been appraised as collectors' items.

From the buned out house, investigators salvaged charred and partly burned bills redeemed by the U. S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve Bank for $2,900. Most of the bills were the big old ones discontinued in the 1930s.

Walter Erwin, county administrator, speculates more money was lost in the fire. He bases this on the fact the newest coin in the bucket was dated in 1946.

Mary Trimble's daughter, Mrs. Stella Botts of Washington, has not entered a claim for the money; but Missouri did. It seeks to recover the $7,900 it granted to Mary Trimble over the years in old age assistance payments.

Father, Son Meet After Long Absence

Moments after the meeting Pietro, 55, who had been living in Sardinia, suffered a heart attack and died.

His shocked father died a few hours later of another heart attack.

It's just plain bad planning on nature's part, having the days shortest when there is most to do.

Capital Not Same Since Truman Era

VIET NAM
By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This place hasn't been the same since the fiery and colorful days of President Harry S. Truman who knocked heads with Congress and anyone who got him mad enough.

Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy tried to play it cool — in public — no matter how overheated they got in private. President Johnson is trying the same, with a twist of his own.

Ice, the poet Robert Frost said, can be as effective as fire. And Johnson has been using the ice treatment on Sen. J. W. Fulbright, an Arkansas Democrat but one of the President critics.

It's hardly a secret Fulbright infuriated Johnson when he blasted the use of troops in the Dominican Republic revolt. Johnson said nothing publicly.

When Fulbright, who has been at odds with Johnson over the Viet Nam war policy, suggested a suspension of the bombings, the President let his press secretary, Bill D. Moyers, answer for him. Moyers said it would do no good.

Some of Fulbright's fellow senators said he wrote Johnson a get-well note when the President was hospitalized last October and got in a reply a note from a staff member.

Then early last month Johnson approved a big fact-finding trip to Europe and Asia — including a Kremlin conference — by five senators headed by Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic leader.

Mansfield said he had discussed it with Johnson for months. Fulbright, as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, might have seemed the logical man to head such a mission.

But it is known Fulbright was surprised by the news. And his committee had never authorized the trip. Fulbright, meanwhile, was to head a group of senators going to a minor conference in New Zealand.

Whereas Mansfield's team traveled by Air Force jet, Fulbright's was told it would have to get slower planes or commercial transportation. Then followed a strange coincidence — if it can be called that.

On his way to New Zealand Fulbright stopped off last Thursday in Australia and was asked by newsmen if he thought enough Australians were fighting beside Americans in South Viet Nam.

He had to ask how many were there, although he heads the Foreign Relations Committee and has had things to say about the war. When told the figure was 1,000, he said that number was very small when compared with the 165,000 Americans in South Viet Nam.

Some Australians interpreted his remark as belittling their war effort. Monday Fulbright called off a news conference. The next day Johnson sent a message to the Australians, praising their efforts in South Viet Nam.

They could interpret this — and so could anyone else — as Johnson's way of saying the American government knew what was going on in Viet Nam if the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee didn't.

Northrop FS Probationer In Viet Nam

Maj. Alfred Hopkins, Killeen, Tex., reports another nickname is the Skoshi Tiger. Skoshi is Japanese for little.

The F5 has a wing span of 26 feet, 7 inches and a maximum take-off weight of 19,000 pounds. It can carry only about one-third of the bomb load of McDonnell's F4 Phantom, a standard weapon of both the U.S. Air Force and Navy that has a maximum take-off weight of more than 40,000 pounds.

Top speed of the F5 is Mach 1.4, or about 1,000 miles an hour. However, its normal operating range is short.

The F5 has been sold to some allies of the United States, but still lacks an Air Force contract.

In its present form, the F5 appears to be a far cry from the perfect answer to problems of the air war against the Communist guerrillas.

The ideal would be a subsonic jet with a high bomb-carrying capability and fairly long range. The plane which probably most nearly approximates this is the A6 Navy attack plane, which is not carrying out air assaults in South Viet Nam at present.

Three of the F5s, dressed in their dull brown and green camouflage paint and each carrying two 750-pound bombs, streaked off the runway at Bien Hoa air base last Saturday for an attack against a Viet Cong stronghold.

In flight, the planes were diverted to help a Vietnamese regiment which was being destroyed by a Viet Cong assault force only 45 miles northwest of Saigon.

The planes were delayed once when Guam-based B52s began unloading bombs near the fighting zone. Then they were told: "Get out of the way. We have artillery going in here."

Nervously watching his fuel gauges, the flight leader finally radioed: "We have to strike now or never. Give us a target."

The pilots were cleared to make their runs ahead of other aircraft and dropped all their bombs on the first pass instead of laying them in normally, one at a time.

They didn't have time to make strafing runs with their 20mm cannons, but their bombs were right on target.

Completing a 30-mile flight back to Bien Hoa, the F5 pilots asked for and got priority over other aircraft waiting to land.

Range limitations—pilots call such planes short-legged-probably can be overcome by adding larger auxiliary fuel tanks. But the payload maximum of four bombs probably cannot be increased.

Maj. Roy L. Holbrook, 37, Albemarle, N.C., one of the F5 pilots, praises the plane. He said it is easy to maintain and can be refueled, rearmed and sent out for successive missions quickly. He terms it relatively cheap, simple and reliable. The going price is about $750,000.

Presumably, if the Air Force feels the plane is useful, it will buy some and form squadrons for Viet Nam.

The Navy and Air Force jets in Viet Nam now, with exception of the Navy A4 Skyhawk, were designed primarily as fighters and none can stay in the air for long periods with heavy bomb loads.

The A1 prop-driven Skyraider fills this role, but because of its slow speed cannot get to military hot spots quickly.

The Viet Cong often times its attack between air strikes after one flight of jets comes in, drops its bombs and strafes, and before the next group arrives.

Factory Pay Rises Faster Than Costs

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) —The factory worker's paycheck has been rising faster than the cost of living—his government tells him. A lot of other folk probably are less lucky. And some factory workers may have their doubts as the monthly bills pour in this week.

The cost of living has taken a marked spurt this fall for everyone. The factory worker is called lucky because the government says that on average his take-home pay has gone up enough to cover the additional costs, with something left over.

The total of personal incomes has risen sharply, too, although many a man struggling with the family budget in this big spending month may think the government must be talking about somebody else.

The figuring is done by comparing government indexes.

One, the consumer price index, has climbed to a record 110.4 per cent of the 1957-59 average and is still climbing. In October it stood 1.9 higher than a year ago. That means that what $10.85 would buy then costs you $11.04 today. All you need, presumably, are those 19 cents.

The other, the index of average weekly take-home pay for a factory worker with three dependents, has risen to 116.1 per cent of its 1957-59 average and is up 4.8 from its 111.3 per cent level in October 1964. From that the government statisticians deduce that factory pay has risen more than has the cost of living.

Put another way, the government says that this October its average factory worker took home $97.82 each week, and has $5.64 a week more this year than last with which to meet the monthly bills.

But whether your own income has gone up that much or not, the upward spurt in the cost of living is no joke. And top government officials are reported trying to think up ways to slow down the advance.

Of the major divisions in the Labor Department's consumer price index, only personal care is reported less costly than a year ago. It is down 0.6 per cent this year to 109.2 of its 1957-59 average.

Contract To Cape Firm

DEXTER — The Missouri state highway commission has awarded Steinhoff and Kirkwood and Mid-South Construction Inc. of Cape Girardeau, a contract for improving a section of state supplementary Route AA, in Stoddard County.

The project is for about a tenth of a mile of grading and gravel or crushed stone surfacing at Bloomfield. Total cost for this work is $17,878.

The contractors have been notified that they may begin working about Dec. 13.

Construction will be carried out under the supervision of the Department's District 10 office at Sikeston, where W. D. Carney is the district engineer. D. O. Sprout, district construction engineer, will direct the work with A. C. Cato of Dexter as the resident engineer in active charge.

Armed Forces

George Anthony Kappler of Sikeston, recently enlisted in the U. S. Army for a period of Three Years, it was reported today by Staff Sergeant A. B. Ledbetter of the U. S. Army Recruiting Station in Sikeston, Mo. Private Kappler enlisted under the Army's "High School Graduate - Specialist" program and chose to enlist for training in the Ordnance Supply Parts Specialist. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Kappler, reside at 235 East Kathleen, Sikeston, Mo. For more information about the "Graduate Specialist" program contact Sgt. Ledbetter at Sikeston or call GR 1-3419.

BLYTHEVILLE AFB, Ark. -- According to Department of Defense officials, the department has authorized a limited airlift to carry Christmas gifts from the American people to U. S. servicemen in Viet Nam. Termed "Christmas Star", the airlift is required by the heavy load of items various groups have collected to demonstrate their support of the U. S. effort in Viet Nam.

The packages, when finally collected, will be transported by aircraft assigned to the Air Force Reserve within the continental U. S. to points designated by the Continental Air Command. From these points they will be transported to Viet Nam by longer range Air National Guard aircraft.

All packages will be accepted as long as they are not marked for specific groups or individuals. Persons desiring to send gifts should contact their local civic or veteran's organizations.

Recreational Center Loan In Prospect

BLOOMFIELD - The Farmers Home Administration has tentatively agreed to approve a $115,000 private business loan to aid in financing a recreational center, D. L. Bess, Bloomfield postmaster, says.

The loan will be made to Crowley's Ridge Recreational Center, Inc., for construction of a golf course, clubhouse, swimming pool, four-acre lake, picnic and boating facilities and tennis courts. The project involves 92 acres.

Bess, a spokesman for the corporation, said the organization applied for the loan about six months ago after its membership reached 111 paid members. Now that government approval has been tentatively secured, he said the membership should increase to more than 150.

The clubhouse and swimming pool should be finished by next season, he said, but the golf course may take longer.

The loan will be obtained through the Rural Recreational Program, a plan under which more than 3,000 towns with populations of less than 2,500 have received loans of up to $500,000 each.

Bloomfield, a town with a population of 1,330, is the only community in the immediate area that has received such a loan.

Woman Believes Debt Overpaid

TOLEDO, Ohio AP -- Ethel Miller received $45 in the mail recently, accompanied by an unsigned letter that read:

"I believe this is the amount I found. Please forgive me, for it was badly needed."

"I do forgive him, oh, I do," said the suburban Rossford woman. "It must have preyed on his mind."

But Mrs. Miller thinks the debt has been overpaid. She believes there was only $29 in her purse when she lost it in 1923.

Jet Crash Triggers Fire

ANCHORAGE, Alaska AP -- A jet fighter plane slid into a hangar while landing at Elmendorf Air Force Base Tuesday night, setting a fire which destroyed the $1.2-million building.

The pilot, Lt. Col. Francis R. Lawson of the 325th Fighter Wing, McChord Air Force Base, near Tacoma, Wash., escaped but suffered a back sprain and was placed in a hospital.

The F106 was completing a flight from Eielson Air Force Base, near Fairbanks. It slid into the back of the hangar, which housed three planes which firemen managed to remove.

Young Lady Packs Pistol

HARTFORD, Conn. AP--Alex Sellock, owner of a downtown shop, says he was trying to fit an attractive young lady with a pair of fur-lined boots when she pointed a small pistol at him and ordered him into the storeroom. Then she made off with $50 from the cash register Tuesday night.

Let patience have its perfect work.—(James 1:4)

We can avoid becoming impatient with others if we keep in mind the fact that Jesus Christ always exercised the utmost in patience in His association with His disciples and with all with whom He came into contact. We should, in effect, be "patient with the patience of Christ."

Here And There

Biggest U.S. Storm

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —The 1965 hurricane season, which spawned the most destructive storm in U.S. history, comprised two tropical storms and four hurricanes between June 1 and Nov. 30.

The one hurricane that reached the U.S. mainland was Betsy, which slammed into Miami on Sept. 8, then roared across the gulf of Mexico and battered New Orleans two days later.

Betsy left 75 persons dead in Florida and Louisiana and a damage toll of more than a billion dollars. The previous record holder was a storm in 1955 which caused $800 million damage in New England.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Rhode Island will require an eye test for all drivers reaching age 65.

The State Registry of Motor Vehicles announced the requirement will be instituted next spring. The present system of vision tests at age 70 will be continued.

TOKYO (AP) —The Japanese government says that Japan's population reached 98,281,955 on Oct. 1, an increase of 4,860,000 or 5.2 per cent over 1960. It said there was an average 266 persons per one square kilometer.

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) —A princess of about 20 years of age who lived 2,500 years ago has been found in a treasure-laden apartment-sized tomb near the Bulgarian town of Vratsa, the news agency BTA reports.

The princess was a member of the Thracian aristocracy, and was bedecked with golden earrings showing sirens, gold spangles, and gold buttons. Arrows, spears, clay vessels, and a mirror were found in the tomb.

HEAR YE AMERICA;

there are in our land today those who say we are weak and are a defeated people; and in a sense they are correct. but in truth they are wrong. It is true that our land today is in the hands of corrupt men who are destroying our freedom and our Heritage of free men and women that our forefathers gave their lives for in order that we and our children and their children should have the right to live a good and decent life but we do not enjoy the fruits of their sacrifices for the principals of Human Life that they gave their lives for is gone; and in its stead has been brought upon us Tyranny and Persecution by our own government. But we, as free American citizens, do not and will not accept the defeat of our Heritage of free people as proclaimed by God and our forefathers. What is not known to Americans is the fact that God promised us even before this was America, that we would be a land of God and that He would protect us. He promised that no enemy would inhabit our homes and that no enemy would eat the fruits of our vineyards. He has kept that promise. Remember Pearl Harbor? But not one Japanese bomb fell on this land, there never had, and never will be an enemy bomb on this land. So as God has kept his promise to us, let us prove our pledge to him. Towit: In God We Trust. I repeat, Let Us Prove It. Let us begin by reclaiming and regaining our Heritage, by banding together in the most powerful movement the world has ever known, The National Christian Crusaders of America. Our pledge to return our government to clean, decent reputable men and women by removing from our government the hoodlum political bosses who now have robbed us of our Rights. We shall cease to pay blackmail to the evil world in the so-called "foreign aid", we shall cease to subsidize at public expense, which is our money for adultery and whoredom for which our money is now being used. Though we do not believe in the persecution of any people; we do maintain that we, as free people, have and will exercise our right to a free governing of our lives. Further, we propose to remove the evil hand of Satan from the most wonderful event the world has known and restore it to the prestige and honor it is entitled to; the birth of our Blessed Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. So let's arise America and throw off the Yoke of Bondage and again enjoy the freedom for which is our Heritage. For the word of God says "when the righteous rule, the people rejoice. Let us again bring happiness and real rejoicing to our lives and the only fear we have to fear is fear itself. God said without me, you can do nothing but in Me, you are strong and nothing can stand against you. Let us return to our God. Enroll today in the National Christian Crusaders of America.

Today in U.S. History

Today's highlight in hisotyr:

On this date in 1823, the Monroe Doctrine was enunciated by President James Monroe.

On this date

In 1863, ground was broken for the Union Pacific Railway.

In 1952, the birth of a baby was publicly televised for the first time.

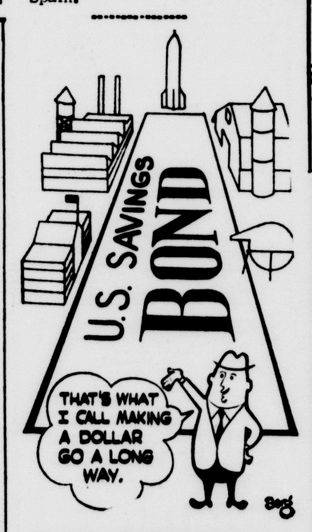
Ten years ago—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles aroused a storm of protest in India by his reference to Goa, a disputed Portuguese enclave in India, as a "Portuguese province."

Five years ago — The White Houst announced that President Eisenhower had authorized the use of up to one million dollars for the relief and resettlement of Cuban refugees in southern Florida.

One year ago — Former Argentine dictator Juan Peron flew from Spain to Brazil in an attempt to return to his country; Brazil sent him back to Spain.



CHIC CHICK—For a visitor to the site of Expo 67, the next world's fair now under construction at Montreal, a suitable safety headgear, stenciled with the distinctive double-y symbol, is provided. It made an unusual chapeaux for Linda Douma, Miss Canada, on her recent visit.

FLAMES THAT SAVE

Cecil Clay, farmer on Route 2, Essex, does not hesitate to tell you if he has machinery that will help him make a success of farming.

"I bought my flame cultivator because my son and I have to have our work done. Anyone that drives a tractor, can handle this piece of equipment."

"I use pre-emerge chemicals with it, and the combination is like money in the bank for any farmer."

"I've had my flame cultivator almost four years, and the only thing that can wear out are the rubber hose connections which I may have to change sometime."

"It's the handiest piece of equipment I have, and since I had to buy some larger equipment, since it's almost impossible to get extra labor, I have something here I can depend on to get out my crops."

"We flame our crop as soon as the bark forms on the plant and come back a short time later, which assures the plant-life between the rows to be killed before it comes through."

"As long as you set the flame right, it will never hurt your plants, and found it out after a demonstration was made through eight rows of cotton. I thought sure they had burned up these rows, but a month later the cotton matured the same as the rows that had not been touched, but minus all grass and weeds."

"I never fail to use the flame cultivator when the grass and weeds are small. If I want more corn, I plant it, put on the chemicals and flame it, and then forget about plowing it."

"The proof to this was 40 to 60 more bushels of corn per acre."

Burial will be in the Oak Grove cemetery.

Warmer Air In Deep South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A hard freeze chilled the Deep South during the night but warmer air moved into the area as the day progressed, signalling an end to the cold snap. Temperatures were near or above normal in other parts of the nation.

Mercury readings in the 20s this morning spread from Alabama across the Carolinas and the freezing line extended into parts of northern Florida.

Doctors to Refuse Role in Medicare

CHICAGO AP -- More than 50,000 doctors will refuse to take part in the federal medicare program, says an official of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons.

Harry E. Northam, the association's executive director, said Wednesday he based his figure on letters and actions of local and state medical societies.
